Natural Equity Policy Should Guide Revision Of Confederation Terms

Mr. C. W. Craig, K.C., Counsel for Province, Reviews B.C.'s Case Before Better Terms Commission to Argue Province Entered Into Bargain Which Had Proved Severe in Operation

Counsel Says Dominion Has Utilized Railway Lands as Freehold Property

"THE claims of the Province in the question of the return of the Dominion Lands, are based on the grounds of equity in its broadest sense," said Mr. C. W. Craig, K.C., in addressing the Commission on the subject yesterday afternoon. He explained that he did not mean by equity that the term should be applied in the strict legal sense. "Your Lordship is justified in looking at the matter from the standpoint of natural equity," he continued, in addressing Mr. Justice W. M. Martin, of Regina, who is the sole commissioner appointed to hear the application.

This, he said, was the ground upon which the claim was put forward by the province.

Mr. Craig, following the general outline of the claim of the province by the Attorney-General yesterday morning, entered upon the presentation of the case of the province before His Lordship at the afternoon sitting. His presentation was still in progress at the hour of the Commissions' rising in the afternoon.

Mr. Craig said that he wished to revert to the matter that had come up in the forenoon as to whether His Lordship was to view this matter as a judge in a court action, and be bound only by the legal aspect of the situation, or whether he was prepared to take a wider view of it. Mr. Craig's opinion was that the Commission might well take a very wide view of the matter.

DOMINION DEFAULTED

Outlining the general lines of his argument, Mr. Craig submitted that the terms upon which British Columbia entered Confederation as far as this matter of railway lands was concerned, were not carried out. British Columbia was to appropriate lands along the line of the railway on the same terms as in the prairies. This was not done, but was carried out in a manner that worked to the disadvantage of the province of British Columbia.

The policy of the Dominion Government when British Columbia entered into Confederation, was that the railway was to be constructed by large land grants rather than by large cash subsidies. On the contrary the work was done by the issue of large cash subsidies running to $62,000,000, which was still further supplemented.

The conditions were varied, and in the contribution of large cash subsidies, British Columbia had to bear its share. Had British Columbia known in advance of the large cash subsidies that were to be paid, it might have influenced the province in the matter of joining the union.

A third aspect of the case was that the grant of land was, moreover, made in trust. This appeared throughout all the records. The land had not been used according to the terms under which they were granted. The Dominion had used the lands as if they were the ordinary owner of these areas.

The railway had now been built and the lands had not been used. These lands not having been found to be necessary for the construction of the railway, the trust in the matter had been altered.

VIEWED BY LATER EVENTS

While the bargain made in 1884 might have been regarded as a fair one at the time, yet events showed this bargain was an unfair one in the light of latter events, inasmuch as the terms exacted from British Columbia were too severe. This Province was expected to do too much under these terms.

Upon this view of the situation, Mr. Craig said he laid a great deal of stress.

Events had turned out so different from what they were conceived to take, that the basis of the bargain warranted a change in keeping with the present-day view of the situation.

"It is inconceivable that the parties should have entered into the bargain had the situation been viewed as it

COAST MAY LOOK FOR MUCH GRAIN

CHAIRMAN OF GRAIN BOARD SAYS ALBERTA HAS BEST OUTLOOK FOR YEARS

If Present Prospect Realized Large Volume of Export Wheat Will Come West

VANCOUVER, June 21.—Prospects point to a good crop throughout the prairies this year, stated Mr. Leslie H. Boyd, chairman of the Board of Grain Commissioners for Canada, on his arrival here today, on official business. He is accompanied by Commissioner Matthew Snow.

"Alberta has not had a better prospect in years," he said. "If Alberta carries through the crop that she now seems likely to have, Vancouver is sure to come into its own as a grain port this year."

Mr. Boyd stated that his visit was for the purpose of adjusting a number of routine matters with the Board of Harbor Commissioners prior to the transfer of the elevators to the wheat pool. While here he will also inspect the site of the proposed wheat pool elevator, and will make arrangements for enlarging the grain board's inspection office, where the present accommodation has been found inadequate, he said.

The board will return about August 22 to hold its annual tariff meeting, he announced.

MUCH WORK DONE ON H.B. RAILWAY

End of Steel Now at Mile 350 at Limestone River—Unused Track Rehabilitated

WINNIPEG, Man., June 21.—More than eleven hundred workmen, with ten work trains and a full complement of equipment, are being used this year in the rehabilitation and construction work on the Hudson Bay Railway, it was announced by officers of the construction department of the Canadian National Railways, which has the work in hand. The end of steel is now at the Limestone River, mile 350. In addition to reconditioning the track which was in existence prior to the present work being started in the Spring of 1926, eighteen miles of new track have also been laid. By the end of the present year it is expected work will be finished on the Limestone River bridge and the line extended to a point some miles beyond this crossing.

When the work of reconditioning the Hudson Bay Railway was begun in 1926, the line was being operated as far as mile 214. Track was laid to mile 332, but before any work on the extension could be made the part already built had to be repaired and brought into condition for the operation of trains. Most of the ties originally used were rotted and useless and these needed replacement. In many sections the line had settled seriously and this had to be reballasted, the bulk of the ballast being hauled in by trains.

During the season of 1926 as many as 900 men and eight work trains were employed. During the season of 1927 and to date the number of men employed has exceeded 1,100 and as many as ten work trains, with a proper complement of working equipment, have been used.

FINLAND AND SOVIET EXCHANGE NOTES OF MUTUAL CRITICISM

HELSINGFORS, Finland, June 21.—The Finnish Government on June 18 sent a note to Soviet Russia protesting against the execution of General Elvengren.

The note says that the execution of Elvengren, who is declared to be a Finn, was not in accordance with the principles recognized by all civilized countries and that a repetition of such methods may endanger the amicable relations between Finland and Soviet Russia.

MOSCOW, June 21.—In the Soviet's reply to the recent Finnish note protesting against the execution of General Elvengren, the Soviet, while declaring its wish to maintain friendship with Finland, says it cannot continue a discussion regarding question of justice in civilized countries. Moreover, it expresses surprise that Finland deemed it necessary to intervene in the case of a person who had never claimed Finnish citizenship and had engaged in destructive activities against a power friendly to Finland.

Prowling Cougar Invades Swannery at Beacon Hill

Mountain Lion Twice Seen Yesterday, Once in Park and Another Time in Pemberton Woods—Beautiful White Swan Is First Victim

THE mountain lion, or cougar, that has been seen several times in Victoria and Saanich during the past few days has led searchers a merry chase all over the city. First appearing at Royal Oak, the cougar ventured still further into the city and was next seen at Mount Tolmie. On Saturday morning it was sighted twice in the vicinity of the Burnside School, and yesterday morning seen again on two occasions. It has already started a campaign of destruction with a beautiful white swan at Beacon Hill Park its first victim.

At 7:40 o'clock yesterday morning Mrs. G. Gates, of 30 Olympia Avenue, telephoned to the police that she had seen the cougar wandering along the edge of the football field at Beacon Hill Park in front of her residence and that it had disappeared into the broom.

POLICE ON TRAIL

Constable Duncan McPherson and Patrolman Ben Acreman, armed with rifles, rushed to the park in the patrol, but their search failed to find the animal. No sooner had they returned to headquarters than a telephone call came in from Mr. F. G. Riden, of 1803 Chandler Avenue. He reported having seen the cougar in front of his residence. The wild cat disappeared into the broom, he said. The search in this vicinity failed to uncover the beast, so the police took the matter up with W. N. Lenfesty, gun and fishing store merchant, of 1324 Government Street.

Mr. Lenfesty is well known to big game hunters and is now getting in touch with "Dad" Janes. This well-known hunter and his two bloodhounds hold 100 slain cougars to their credit. It is hoped that with the use of the bloodhounds the cougar can be "treed" and shot. There is a $50 bounty given by the Provincial Government for dead cougars and the hunter is also given the valuable skin after it has been marked with the Government stamp.

It is hoped to pick up the cougar's trail at Pemberton Woods, where he was last seen, entering the brush just in front of Mr. Riden's residence.

PUBLIC MENACE

Not only is the animal a menace to the public but the deer and other animals at Beacon Hill Park are in danger.

Residents of Fairfield are agog over the appearance of the cougar in that district, while considerable anxiety has been caused in the neighborhood of Burnside School, it being feared that the children might be attacked.

Anyone who sights this cougar is asked to notify the police immediately.

Cougar Sighted Late Last Night in Oak Bay

A REPORT came into city police headquarters at 11:55 o'clock last night that the mountain lion which has been terrorizing residents in every neighborhood it has appeared in, was sighted on Island Road, Oak Bay, near Central Avenue. The man who reported, while giving his name and address to the police, did not wish to have his name made public. The cougar, on hearing approaching footsteps, took to the higher ground in that vicinity.

P.G.E. PROMOTERS PROPOSE INQUIRY

VANCOUVER, June 21. — Representatives of important eastern financial interests who recently inspected the Pacific Great Eastern Railway will recommend to their principals that a thorough investigation of the traffic producing possibilities of the Peace River District be made before a definite proposal to the Provincial Government for purchase of the road is made stated Hon. Dr. W. H. Sutherland, Minister of Railways, while in Vancouver today. What their decision may be as a result of the investigation now under way, he could not say.

BRITISH CHILDREN TAKEN TO RUSSIA

Five Boys About Twelve Years Old and One Girl of Same Age Sent By Communists

LONDON, June 21.—The Daily Mail says that six children of British Communists left London tonight for Leningrad aboard the Soviet steamer Youshar, notwithstanding the Home Secretary's refusal to grant them passports.

The determination of the Communist organization to get the children to Russia and the resolve of the authorities to prevent their going, has filled much space in the newspapers lately. Now, according to The Mail, the Communists have won in the struggle, and five boys, about twelve years of age, and a girl of the same age, are voyaging to Russia in response to the invitation of Moscow, apparently for purposes of education. The paper says two of them had passports, but how they obtained them is a mystery.

Shareholders Meeting Turns Into Hot Fight

LOS ANGELES, Cal., June 21.—The Julian Petroleum stock oversisue morass was turned into a bloody battlefield today when stockholders, meeting to take further action to protect their interests, engaged in arguments that ended in a general melee and the sending of one man to a hospital.

In the meantime, City Prosecutor E. J. Lickley went before the City Council and obtained an appropriation of $10,000 to defray expenses of prosecuting 300 persons, among whom, he said, would be "men prominent in the business life of Los Angeles."

OAK BAY ENGAGES ZONING ENGINEER

MR. DOUGHTY DAVIES WILL GIVE MUNICIPALITY ASSISTANCE IN PASSAGE OF BY-LAW

Clerk R. F. Blandy and Solicitor Draft Regulation After One in Victoria, Vancouver, Seattle and Point Grey

The services of Mr. Doughty Davies, city zoning engineer, have been engaged by the Oak Bay Municipality for the purpose of helping the Council in the passage of its zoning by-law. The adjoining municipality has realized the importance of zoning, and the clerk, Mr. R. F. Blandy, and the municipal solicitor have drafted a by-law which is now being considered.

Through the consent of the city, Mr. Davies started work with the Oak Bay Municipality yesterday. He will be engaged on Oak Bay work for several weeks, giving expert advice and rounding out the by-law for them. The Oak Bay by-law has been drafted from the Victoria, Vancouver, Seattle and Point Grey by-laws with certain amendments made to meet local conditions.

The corporation has been divided into three districts, residential, apartment and hotel district and business district. There will be no industrial district, industries in that municipality being prohibited.

ITALY AND BELGIUM NOT ON GOOD TERMS

ROME, June 21.—The post of Italian ambassador to Belgium, which will shortly be vacated, will be left temporarily vacant because of the alleged hostile attitude towards Italy of Foreign Minister Vandervelde, of Belgium, it was learned here today.

Marquis Negrotto di Cambiano, present ambassador to Belgium, will leave Brussels within a few days to go to Egypt, as a member of the debt commission. His successor will not be appointed for the present.

M. Vandervelde, it is asserted here, has so clearly shown definitely anti-Italian tendencies in semi-official acts that the Italian Government finally decided upon this form of protest to express its strong feelings on the subject.

SITUATION IN IRISH CAPITAL STILL CLOUDED

Premier Cosgrave and Colleagues Ready to Hand Over Control to New Ministry But Successors Not in Sight

SESSION OF DAIL OPENS TOMORROW

De Valera Party Plans Monster Demonstration — Organized Bodies of Youths Are Being Drafted Into City

DUBLIN, June 21.—The Government party, which met with some losses in the recent general elections for the Dail Eireann, has rejected coalition, and President Cosgrave and his ministers are prepared to hand over control to a new ministry.

The other parties, however, are not displaying anxiety to take office and a change of Government is not likely. The Laborites did not seriously consider the prospect of Labor being called upon to form a Government, and the Farmers' party at today's congress here also decided against a coalition. The Farmers reaffirmed their resolution, urging continuance as an independent political entity pledged to support the Government in the maintenance of law, order, stability and a progressive agricultural policy.

DE VALERA'S PLANS

The supporters of Eamonn de Valera (the Fianna Fail) have been urgently summoned to a conference in Dublin tomorrow. Arrangements have been made for a monster demonstration on Thursday when the new Dail meets and to which the De Valeraites will be refused admission unless they take the oath of allegiance.

Organized bodies of youths being drafted into the city lend additional color to this gesture, which the organizers describe as a "demonstration to open an anti-oath campaign."

TAG DAY TO BE HELD SATURDAY

EXECUTIVE HOPES TO SECURE $2,000 FROM THIS SOURCE TOWARD JUBILEE FUND

Amount Raised to Date Totals $6,080—Citizens Urged to Support Celebration

A tag day will be held on Saturday to augment the fund being raised to finance the celebration in this city, July 1 to 3, of the Diamond Jubilee of Confederation. It will be held under the auspices of the Canadian Daughters' League, and the headquarters will be at 1107 Government Street.

The committee in charge want volunteers, and anyone wishing to help secure funds for the celebration may assist materially by telephoning 236, or applying at the headquarters' room and offering their services as taggers. Light refreshments will be served to the taggers at the Sons of Canada Hall, on View Street, during the day.

Subscriptions received yesterday sent the Jubilee fund beyond the half-way point toward its objective of $12,000. The combined banks of Victoria have donated $125 toward the fund, while the B.C. Electric Railway Company has contributed $50. Previously acknowledged was $5,905. With yesterday's subscriptions the total now stands at $6,080. Subscriptions can be made at offices of The Times and Colonist, headquarters, 1107 Government Street, or at the City Treasurer's Department.

SOURCES OF REVENUE

There are other means by which the citizens of Victoria can support this celebration and that is by purchasing tickets of admission to reserved seats at various attractions and events that

SOVIET ENVOY ISSUES STATEMENT ON TAKING HIS LEAVE OF CANADA

MONTREAL, June 21.—Soviet representation in Canada will end tomorrow when Longin F. Gerus and his consulate aides entrain for Quebec, there to embark for Moscow.

Mr. Gerus, in commenting today upon his departure, exclaimed that he had been here but seven months and that his work had only been well started. He regretted the rupture which occasioned the cancellation of Canadian relations with Soviet Russia.

Mr. Gerus gave out the following statement:

"Since the treaty between Canada and the Soviet Union was abrogated the official agency of the Soviet Union received many telegrams and letters from the east and west of Canada with expressions of regret that the treaty was so unexpectedly terminated.

"I believe that the Canadian Government will very soon reflect the interests and sentiment of the Canadian people by re-establishing diplomatic and trade relations with the Soviet Union."

VANCOUVER SWELTERS

VANCOUVER, June 21.—Vancouver sweltered in the hottest temperature of the year today when 83.8 degrees was recorded by the weather bureau at noon. It was 83 at 2 p.m. and the heat continued until about 4 p.m., when the thermometer dropped rapidly to 74 at 5 p.m., when a light shower fell.

Chang's Forces Capture Tsingtao and Make Ready For Last March on Peking

Moderate Nationalist Troops Said to Have Taken Railway Terminus and Seaport Well Up Shangtung Coast—Further Advance Made Thence Toward Railway Junction at Provincial Capital

Nationalist Conference Expected to Result in Reunion Under Nanking Rule

SHANGHAI, June 21.—The vernacular newspapers state that a detachment of Nationalists has arrived at Tsingtao, an important port of the Province of Shantung, from Haichow, by boat, occupying the city and proceeding along the railway toward Tsinan Fu, capital of the Province. General Sun Chuang Fang, the Northern commander, who is at Tsinan Fu, is expected to surrender momentarily to the Southerners, the papers say, further opening the road to Peking.

(Tsingtao was former German-leased territory. It was then occupied by the Japanese and restored to China in December, 1922. Recently the Japanese Government decided to send 2,000 troops to Tsingtao, an action which brought protests from the Chinese.)

The vernacular newspapers reported added military activity at Tsingtao by the Japanese, a temporary wireless station having been established, and preparations made for further troop accommodations.

Shuntao, the leading Chinese daily, tomorrow will say that the forthcoming conference at Suchow between Feng Yu-Hsiang, commander of the Nationalist forces, of the Hankow radical regime, and General Chiang Kai-Shek, commander of the Moderate Nationalists, whose headquarters are at Nanking, will result in the merging of the two factions and the establishment of one government at Nanking.

General Chiang Kai-Shek tomorrow will clamp a strict censorship on the vernacular papers. This is interpreted as presaging the inauguration of a final drive on Peking following the Suchow parley.

The Nationalist troops referred to are those attached to the army of Chiang Kai Shek, Moderate Nationalist. Their recent capture of Haichow and their advance into Shangtung has placed them well in advance of the Hankow, or Red Nationalist, forces in the race for Peking.

Tsing Tao is well up toward Wei Hai Wei on the east coast of Shangtung, and is the terminus of a railway to Peking, via Tientsin.

BRITISH PEERS APPROVE REFORM

Principles of Government's Plan for New House of Lords Endorsed at Meeting of Conservative Members

REFORM OF HOUSE BELIEVED CERTAIN

LONDON, June 21.—The long-awaited reform of the House of Lords probably will be carried out in view of the approval of the Government proposals, which was verified at a private meeting of 150 Conservative peers today.

The peers welcomed the principles of the Government's scheme of reform while reserving the right to pronounce on its details.

The Government's proposals, explained by Lord Chancellor Cave yesterday, include the selection by the peers themselves of a limited number to serve for periods of twelve years, with the further appointment of a certain number of other members to the upper house for periods of twelve years, thus making possible the representation of Labor and other parties.

Cunard Official Coming to City on Canadian Tour

Sir Percy Elly Bates, Bart., deputy chairman of the Cunard Steamship Company, of Liverpool, reached Father Point, Quebec, Friday on his way to Victoria.

Instead of proceeding up river to Montreal, Sir Percy disembarked at Father Point to proceed to Metis, Quebec, for fishing. After spending two weeks fishing there he will come through to this city, inspecting en route offices of the Cunard line in Canada.

He will leave Victoria for San Francisco, and then cross the United States, returning to Montreal in July.

THREE WOMEN FILL ONE MAN'S PLACE

Mr. Chesterton's Experience Related in Debate of Value of House of Commons

LONDON, June 21.—That all the British House of Commons seems to be good for, is to show American tourists, was the judgment of Miss Rose MacAulay, the novelist, who presided over a debate tonight between Mr. G. K. Chesterton and Mr. Mitchell Banks, M.P. These two noted advocates discussed in their most learned manner the question, "Is the House of Commons of Any Use?"

Miss MacAulay declared that Mr. Chesterton had failed to prove that the Commons was useless, but on the other hand, Mr. Banks had failed to prove that it was useful.

"You might just as well debate this question, 'Is Chesterton of any use?'" said Mr. Banks. "The answer is this, —you couldn't find anybody else to fill his place."

"But I once gave up my seat to three women," interjected Mr. Chesterton, who is an exceedingly stout man.

Mr. Chesterton argues that the House of Commons has become decadent, and that although it contained a very large number of honest men, they never seemed to be the most prominent members.

The debate was held to aid hospital charity funds.

AUSTRIAN PRESIDENT RECEIVES CHAMBERLIN

SNAGS APPEAR AT GENEVA MEETING

PLAN PRESENTED BY EACH POWER IS OBJECTIONABLE TO OTHER TWO POWERS

Views So Irreconcilable That Treaty Impossible Unless Positions Receded From

GENEVA, June 21.—Never will the United States be forced into building small size cruisers unsuitable for the needs of her national defence, that, it is understood, is the answer which the American delegates will make to the British proposal at the tri-partite naval conference for the eventual abolition of the 10,000-ton cruisers authorized by the Washington parleys.

The close of the second day conference has permitted the experts to reaffirm their earlier judgment that the three plans presented—the American, British and Japanese—are so different as to be utterly irreconcilable and are certain to make a treaty impossible unless someone recedes from his original position.

JAPANESE PLAN

Admiral Saito, however, in a statement to the Associated Press tonight, in which he explained the purport of the Japanese proposals, threw an entirely new light on some of Tokio's intentions and justified the belief of the American delegation that an agreement would be more possible on a basis of the Japanese plan than the British. Saito made it clear that in America's future cruiser building programme she could, under the Japanese project, scrap some of the numerous destroyers and put the tonnage thus saved into cruisers.

MOTORISTS APPROVE FEDERAL AID FOR ROAD CONSTRUCTION

VANCOUVER, June 21.—A permanent policy of Federal aid in road construction was favored at today's meeting of the Provincial Board, B. C. Automobile Club. The results of a grant in 1919 by the Dominion Government of $20,000,000, divided among the provinces, were reviewed.

It was stated that Hon. W. H. Sutherland, provincial minister of public works, had declared himself as approving adoption of this method of road building, which is favored also by Ontario and Alberta motor associations.

ANTI-SLAVERY PACT RATIFIED BY BRITAIN

GENEVA, June 21.—Great Britain, on behalf of England and India and other Dominions, except Canada and the Irish Free State, has forwarded to the League of Nations secretariat ratification of the anti-slavery convention drawn up at Geneva in September, 1926. The convention now is automatically in force throughout the British Empire.

Bulgaria and Denmark are the only other countries which have ratified the agreement.

JAPANESE OFFICIAL RETURNS TO TOKIO

Yuki Sato, Vice-Consul for Japan, Left on Admiral Liner Last Night—Next Appointment Uncertain

Yuki Sato, Vice-Consul of Japan, was in the city yesterday en route to Tokio, Japan, after being relieved of his official duties on the Mainland. He left last night on the Admiral liner President Lincoln.

During his short stay in the city he called on Mr. A. M. D. Fairbairn, private secretary of the Lieutenant-Governor; Acting Premier Hon. Dr. J. D. MacLean, and Mayor Pendray.

"My departure from Vancouver was very regrettable," said Mr. Yuki Sato, "as since my appointment on the Mainland I have formed a large circle of friends, and to leave them was a heartbreaking task. I am going to Tokio for a rest." When asked as to his next appointment, he said that the matter was uncertain.

PRAIRIE EDITORS COMING TO COAST

WELL-KNOWN NEWSPAPER MEN TO COME ON FIRST RUN OF "CONFEDERATION" EXPRESS

Coast Men to Go East With Party on C.N.R.'s New Crack Train of All-Canadian Build

WINNIPEG, June 21.—Greetings from the newspapermen of the three Prairie Provinces to the newspapermen of the Pacific Coast will be brought to Vancouver by a large and representative party of journalists from all the important cities in the West, who will travel to Vancouver in a special car attached to the "Confederation," the new crack Toronto-Vancouver train of the Canadian National Railways on its inaugural trip, leaving Winnipeg at 9:40 Sunday morning, June 26, and arriving Vancouver at 3 the following Tuesday afternoon.

In deed, therefore, as well as in name, the inauguration of this new train service will reflect the spirit of the confederation of the provinces as it will bring into personal, friendly contact men whose business it is to judge and direct the trend of public thought, but many of whom are known to each other only by reputation. In order that the purpose may be well rounded out, representatives from all the dailies of the Pacific Coast will join the party in Vancouver to return to Winnipeg.

SOME OF THE PARTY

Those who have already signified their intention of making the trip west on the "Confederation" are: H. B. Guest, Winnipeg Free Press, Winnipeg; J. J. Moncrieff, Winnipeg Tribune, Winnipeg; Colonel G. E. Porter, Porter News Service, Winnipeg; Harry Cook, Regina Leader-Post, Regina; Fred J. Workman, Times-Herald, Moose Jaw; John E. Wodell, Herald, Calgary; A. B. Watt, Journal, Edmonton; A. De H. Smith, Bulletin, Edmonton.

Representatives are also expected from The Calgary Albertan and The Prince Albert Herald.

Eastward the party will have in addition, R. C. Nicholas, Victoria Times; M. C. Lane, Victoria Colonist; Brigadier-General Odlum, Vancouver Star; Ernest B. Mayon, Vancouver Sun; Vic E. Andrews, British Columbian, New Westminster.

A representative of The Vancouver Province is also expected.

MADE IN CANADA

In choosing the "Confederation" as the vehicle of their goodwill journey, these newspapermen have decided upon a train which provides a new route between Vancouver and Toronto, and an elimination of considerable time in the operating schedule. In construction, the train is all-Canadian. The locomotive, the observation library car, the steel equipment, has all been produced in Canadian workshops; and in the design of the observation car, particularly, several new features have been introduced. One of these is the placing of drawing-room in the centre instead of the fore end of the car. The radio set has been built in and outlets and head sets have been provided in all the compartments and in the drawing-room, so that occupants may listen to the concerts in their own rooms.

All the sleeping cars have been named after Fathers of the Confederation, and the observation cars bear the names of forts which have played a part in Canadian history. The route of the "Confederation" both ways is via Winnipeg, Brandon, Regina, Saskatoon and Edmonton.

NATURAL EQUITY POLICY SHOULD GUIDE REVISION

appeared today, with the change of circumstances which were not contemplated at the time," said Mr. Craig.

The burden borne by British Columbia should be based on that borne by the other provinces. He did not mean by this that there should be exactly the same conditions for each province. The situation should be carefully considered and the burden of the Province of British Columbia should not be greater than that of the other parts of the Dominion.

As an instance of this, he did not think it was to be considered fair that British Columbia should bear the great burden of bringing the railway to the Province. This is not the case in so far as the Intercolonial Railway was concerned. There the Province of Quebec had been recouped to the extent of the sum of $5,000,000 for the section of railway that was turned over to the Dominion to be used as a part of the Intercolonial, being regarded as for the common benefit of the Dominion.

As far as the provinces were concerned, there was no statute of limitations. The matters in dispute should be approached in a broad way. The Maritimes had no better claim than had the Province of British Columbia.

UNCONNECTED WITH SUBSIDY

Dealing with the matter of the lump annual subsidy of $100,000 contained in the Act of Union, Mr. Craig urged that there was every reason for regarding this as a grant given for the purposes of government to the Province and was in no way to be construed as having anything to do with the grant of the land as remuneration for it.

He took the stand that the agreement entered into at Union was really in the way of a treaty rather than a contract that was enforceable in law. As an evidence that this was the case he cited the clause under which the Dominion undertook to bring every influence to bear on the Imperial authorities to maintain a naval station on the Pacific Coast.

Then Mr. Craig dealt with the aspect of the situation as revealed by the agreement of the Province to appropriate lands for the purposes of railway construction. The Province agreed to convey "a similar extent of public lands along the line of railway throughout its entire length in British Columbia not to exceed, however, twenty miles on each side of the said line as may be appropriated for the same purpose by the Dominion Government from the public lands in the Northwest Territories and Manitoba."

In keeping with this undertaking, the Province had given its full twenty miles on either side of the railway, which had not been done in the prairies.

Mr. Craig then alluded to what he held to be a most extraordinary interpretation that had been placed on the clause by Mr. Biggar in his contention against the claims of the Province of British Columbia. This was that the agreement was to give the same acreage of land in British Columbia as was given in the Northwest Territories and Manitoba. Under such a construction the Province of British Columbia would be contributing as much land as the prairies, while the mileage was only about a quarter of that of the prairie sections.

The Province of British Columbia was not complaining, said Mr. Craig, of the terms of union, but rather of the variation of the terms of union. He quoted from the speeches of Sir John A. Macdonald, Sir George Cartier, Sir Leonard Tilley, Sir A. T. Galt, Sir Hector Langevin, Hon. A. Campbell, Hon. D. L. Macpherson and others to show what the intent was in the scheme of union, and the building of the railway to the Pacific. All of these set out that it was the intention to make the land grants the foundation for the construction of the railway. In this, Ontario was expected to contribute 9,000,000 acres, and yet it gave not an acre.

DOMINION GREAT GAINER

When the debates and the other references to the scheme were referred to, Mr. Craig said that it was pointed out that the Dominion had far more to gain than the province by the scheme. It was difficult then to conceive why British Columbia should have been called upon to give 14,500,000 acres of the 18,000,000 contributed.

From 1872 to 1884 negotiations were in progress looking to provision being made to rectify the default of the Dominion in its part of the undertaking. This led to the passage of the Act of 1884 in order to get the Dominion to do something that it was obliged to do, namely, build the E. & N. from Victoria or Esquimalt to Nanaimo. To do this the province gave the Peace River Block and twenty miles on each side of the railway. The province gave the vast area of land for the purpose of having the Dominion carry out its contract. It was a most extraordinary thing to do when the Dominion was defaulting.

He recalled the circumstances connected with the bringing about of the Carnarvon terms under which both the Dominion and the province undertook to abide by the findings of Lord Carnarvon. That was necessary following the decision of the Dominion Government of 1874, to abandon the original scheme of the Pacific Railway and utilize waterways for part of the route and also make use of the railways of the United States. It was then that the agreement was made that the construction of the E. & N. should be proceeded with at once, while a start was to be made on the main railway, which was to be built by way of Bute Inlet, and across Seymour Narrows and on down by the E. & N. to Victoria.

In answer to the commission on the matter of the terminus of the railway, Mr. Craig said that this was not fixed by statute. It was named at Esquimalt by order-in-council according to statute. This was altered also, as was possible, to the present terminus.

At this point the commission rose until 11 o'clock this morning. Mr. Craig will proceed with his argument at the opening today.

COMMITTEE LIMITED

Only by the advance sale of these tickets and public subscriptions can the executive committee in charge of the celebration decide just what kind of celebration can be staged. No expenditures will be made beyond the revenue that comes in before the event.

It is because of this that the appeal is made for merchants, business men and citizens to support the celebration by either buying tickets or subscribing. It is hoped by the committee that the tag day will bring in $2,000 so that the task of raising the $12,000 will not be made difficult.

In the residential districts under the present draft, houses will have to have a twenty-five-foot setback both from the front of the lot and rear, while the sideyard measurement will be a minimum of five feet on one side of the house and total sideyard width of fifteen feet. Height from the ground to eaves will be twenty feet, thus allowing for two full stories. Garages will have to have a ten-foot setback, and in the case of corner lots a twenty-five-foot setback. This is in order to keep them off the face of the street and keep the general appearanec of an avenue attractive.

In the apartment and hotel districts building will be allowed to occupy up to fifty per cent of the area and will probably be allowed three stories. In the business district buildings will be allowed to occupy up to sixty per cent of the property.

Mr. David Leeming has been appointed by provincial authorities as their nominee on the board of appeal and Alderman H. C. Holmes as the city representative. These two members will pick a third, the three sitting as a board of appeal on all questions of dispute

CONTEST GOES ON OVER AFRICA FLAG

General Hertzog States Determination —Referendum if No Agreement Reached

CAPETOWN, June 21.—An extremely animated session of the Legislative Assembly was held today with the Assembly in committee on the National Flag Bill. Former Premier Smuts appealed for time before the House would make its final decision, but Premier Hertzog urged immediate settlement of the flag question.

The Premier said he would not agree to an inartistic or ridiculous form of flag, and unless the Opposition agreed to a friendly settlement, based on the Government's most recent design for the flag, the bill would be passed and submitted to a referendum. South Africa was as independent as Britain, Premier Hertzog declared. Therefore, it was free to have its own flag. He accused a small "British section" of imputing a bad record to the Dutch people of South Africa, or at least the Nationalists among them, and of demanding a pledge of honor and good faith. "We are not cowards," the Premier said, "and that stigma must cease." The Government's present design for the proposed national flag of South Africa includes the Union Jack in one of the small squares at each corner of the flag. Previous designs did not include the Union Jack at all.

After an all-day debate, which at times grew heated, the flag bill passed the committee stage of the Union House of Assembly tonight without a division. Several minor amendments were carried.

PARIS, June 21.—Experts of the Farman Airplane Co. expressed the opinion today that the raft made on an airplane wing to which were attached two wheels, found near the mouth of the Amazon River, was part of the plane in which the missing French airmen, Capt. The markings given by deep sea fishermen who made the report, it was said, are those of the tires on the landing gear, corresponding with the type of tires furnished only for airplanes of the model which Saint Roman flew.

Attorney-General Makes Plea for Railway Lands

Mr. Justice W. M. Martin Refuses to Hear Any Representations Except Through Government—Commission's Scope Early Arises

It was made clear at the opening of the proceedings before the commission inquiring on behalf of the Dominion Government into the issue of the claim by this Province for the reconveyance of the unalienated Dominion railway lands to the Province that the Government of the Province alone will be heard in the matter.

Occasion was taken early in the proceedings by Mr. Justice W. M. Martin, of the Court of Appeal of Saskatchewan, who is the commissioner hearing the representations, to intimate that he would hear only from the Province representations through the Government of British Columbia. In consequence a hearing of Mr. H. D. Twigg, M.P.P., who appeared at the request of Hon. S. F. Tolmie, M.P., on behalf of the Conservatives, was refused. Dr. Tolmie has taken a deep interest in the matter of better terms, raising the matter on behalf of the Province in the House of Commons, and to him is ascribed in no small measure the credit for the bringing of the matter to the stage which it has now reached. Mr. Twigg also is closely associated with the subject, having introduced into the legislature a resolution which went still further than that of Premier Oliver.

SCOPE OF COMMISSION

Early in the proceedings arose the question of the scope of the commission which Mr. Justice Martin holds. His Lordship appeared to hold the view that his commission would only call for the investigation of the legal aspect of the case. Hon. A. M. Manson, Attorney-General for British Columbia, said he felt that the sentimental side and the desire to deal equitably by the Province should have a part in his investigations, basing it on the course followed by the recent Maritime Commission. The matter will be considered later.

Another point that was early brought to the attention of the commission was that in the opinion of the Province the E. & N. land grant might have a part in the deliberations. It was urged by the Attorney-General at the opening session that he was of the opinion that this would constitute a part of the investigation.

Mr. H. D. Twigg, M.P.P., of this city, appeared before Mr. Justice Martin, of the Court of Appeal of Saskatchewan, who is the commissioner charged with the hearing, and made a request that at the wish of Hon. S. F. Tolmie, M.P., he might be heard.

His Lordship quickly returned that he would recognize no party. Any representations that would be presented to him, he said, would have to be through the Attorney-General of the Province, or with his permission.

Mr. Twigg, who was accompanied by Dr. Tolmie, called the attention of the commissioner to the fact that he was simply asking if he had the permission of His Lordship to appear.

"I understand that you are not prepared to hear me," he added.

His Lordship said that he could not recognize him as appearing for the Conservative Party, as he thought any representation would have to be through the Government of the Province.

The Attorney-General added that he thought that the right course was being taken by the commission. He added that he would be glad to hear any representations that it was sought to present, and they would be laid before Mr. C. W. Craig, who was appearing in the matter.

REGRETS PREMIER'S ABSENCE

Mr. Manson made reference to the absence of Premier Oliver. He had deeply interested himself in the nature of the relations between the Dominion and the Province of British Columbia. He had done a lot of research work, and his analytical mind must have been of service to the commission.

A brief had been prepared, and while not entirely comprehensive, would be of assistance as the investigation proceeded, he explained.

The claim of the Province asked for the return to the Province of the unalienated sections of the railway lands and the Peace River Block and for an accounting. By the latter was meant a statement of all revenues received from the lands.

The Province held that the lands were conveyed in trust and that the conditions had not been carried out and could not now be carried out.

The construction of the railway was to be at the expense of the public lands and not out of the treasury of the Dominion. This was the foundation upon which the Terms of Union with British Columbia were carried out.

The construction of the railway, it was set out in the brief, could be by public lands or from cash paid for public lands. It is contended that British Columbia is paying a second time.

On the Peace River Block it was set out that this was in lieu of alienated lands in the railway belt, and waste lands there, and that investigation should be made. The appropriation of lands in British Columbia had been largely in excess of the lands conveyed in the Prairie Provinces.

The Commissioner asked if there were any records as to what took place with respect to the arrangement of the Terms of Union between the Dominion and the Province.

Mr. Manson said there were records, but they were scattered. There were records in Hansard, newspaper reports and messages.

He argued that contracts between political parties differed from those of personal parties. The political contracts were really matters between human beings. Treaties were according to history constantly being revised as conditions changed.

The bargain between the Dominion and British Columbia was in the form of a trial. He quoted a dispatch in 1869 to Governor Musgrave by Earl Granville.

"There the interests of every province would be advanced in considering the whole, rather than in each province seeking to advance its own interest."

STRICT JUSTICE

Referring to the Maritime Provinces Commission, he quoted from the report which said that strict legal justice may not have been done in Nova Scotia, but it would have been wise to have looked at Nova Scotia's problems in a broader way rather than the strict legal manner.

It was in British Columbia's case, therefore, said Mr. Manson, a question of equity and justice, and the future prosperity of the Dominion rather than the strict letter of the law.

He went into the history of British Columbia, and the situation preceding 1871. British Columbia was cut off by transportation facilities from the East. She was reached largely through the United States. There was an Imperial standpoint rather than from the standpoint of British Columbia that the Province should be brought into Confederation. From military and other standpoints the British Empire had ends to serve. The Imperial Government lent every encouragement to bring British Columbia into the Dominion.

Sentimentally Canada was justly anxious to extend the Dominion across the continent. It was an advantage to have this Province go to the Dominion rather than to some other nation, as had taken place in a part of the Western territory that would not have happened had Canada been awake and prepared to offset it. The logical tendency of trade was along north and sixty lives, were British Columbia not bound by ties to the Motherland.

Reviewing the situation in British Columbia about 1870 and 1871, at this time from a money standpoint British Columbia was not regarded very lightly. The same was that of the prairie areas, also little was known of the potentialities of the Province of British Columbia by the small population living there at that time.

The major term of union, as far as the Province was concerned, was transportation. A railway across the Prairies into British Columbia was the main idea, and predominated through the whole structure, including the Imperial and Dominion Governments as well as by the Province.

IMPORTANCE OF RAILWAYS

The Imperial authorities looked upon this railway as a naval and military accessory in moving forces rapidly across the continent.

Railway construction also played a part before in welding the Dominion, as was shown by the construction of the Intercolonial when $100,000,000 was put by the Federal authorities at Confederation, and not by the Maritimes. By Section 11 of the terms of union by British Columbia, the Dominion undertook to begin within two years the construction of the railway as to insure completion within ten years, and the Provinces agreed to convey in trust in furtherance of construction of the said railway in British Columbia similar extent to public lands as was conveyed in prairies.

Touching the $100,000,000 subsidy, Mr. Manson said that it was given because British Columbia absolutely needed it to carry on.

Railway building was given a conspicuous place from 1866 in the scheme of Confederation. The burden was not reasonably to be expected to fall on the Imperial Government. It naturally fell on the Dominion Government.

The Government of B.C. was interested in the construction of the railway but as part of the Dominion and for Dominion purposes, in spite of the fact that there was some Provincial advantage. The Dominion did not do this entirely in the case of British Columbia.

There was no intent as shown by speeches in the Dominion Parliament to construct this railway by moneys collected from the people in taxes.

Lands were to be set aside for the purpose. A small subsidy not to exceed $10,000 a mile was proposed.

British Columbia was not to pay added taxes. The terms as to the building of the railway were not carried out. The construction was delayed. There had been those who opposed the construction.

British Columbia then pressed for carrying out the scheme, the Dominion without perhaps meaning to be unfair and not recognizing the wealth of British Columbia when it varied the terms drove a very hard bargain with British Columbia, whose voice was not very strong at that time.

The spirit of Confederation, he felt, was one of benefit to the whole. Justice must be maintained. If there had been a lack of equity it must be righted.

VISION WAS LACKING

In those days people concerned with the Dominion side proceeded upon many premises as to British Columbia and its worth. The vision of British Columbia by the Fathers of Confederation was far below the present.

British Columbia, in the days of Confederation, was looked upon as having no possibilities in the line of agriculture. Last year $70,000,000 of agricultural products had been raised here. There were $7,000,000 of these exported.

Mr. Manson argued that the whole bargain should be revised. The bargain was made when the Province was in no position to bargain. It was not consistent with what was fair. From a moral and a equitable standpoint the Province had all on its side. He acknowledged that there were embarrassing conditions to be met.

In this connection he said British Columbia then was largely Vancouver Island, and the residents were particularly interested in the construction of a Vancouver Island Railway.

"That was separately subsidized?" asked the Commissioner.

The Attorney-General said "yes."

His Lordship asked if there was any bearing on the present situation.

Mr. Manson replied it was, as it was really part of British Columbia and would be dealt with by Mr. Craig later.

His Lordship said it appeared there was a legal side, and a "new treaty-side." He was obliged to real with the legal side.

Mr. Manson quoted from the Maritime Commission where this arose. The language was almost the same in the two commissions. Mr. Manson felt His Lordship did not need to be so restricted but to make recommendations that would be just.

If it were to depend upon the legal aspect alone, he felt that perhaps they were not in a position to ask much. "The Province depends on the matter of equity," he concluded.

THE COMMISSION

When the opening session of the commission began yesterday morning in the Members' Room in the Parliament Buildings the commission issued to Mr. Justice Martin was read by Mr. J. B. Clearihue, acting secretary to the commission. Under date of March 1 the commission called for the investigation of the claims of the Province of British Columbia for the reconveyance of the railway lands which had been conveyed to the Dominion for that purpose by the Province in accordance with the terms of the union of the Province with the Dominion.

His Lordship followed this with a brief statement that he interpreted the commission to apply to the Dominion railway lands and the Peace River Block.

"The widest possible scope will be given the Province to present its claim," said Mr. Justice Martin.

Hon. A. M. Manson, Attorney-General, appeared for the Province and stated that he had associated with him Mr. C. W. Craig, K.C., Vancouver. For the Dominion Government appeared Mr. Lucien Cannon, K.C., Solicitor-General of Canada, who is also accompanied by Mr. W. W. Cory and other officials of the Department of the Interior at Ottawa, and Mr. A. B. Macdonald, K.C., of Vancouver.

THE MARTIN COMMISSION

The Royal Commission now being conducted under Mr. Justice W. M. Martin, of Saskatchewan, inquiring into the return of the railway lands to British Columbia, is evidently to be a restricted affair. The terms of the Commission are in themselves restricted. The Commissioner evidently does not wish to hear evidence from the people of British Columbia; and, in fact, has inferred, if not said so in somewhat plain language, that he will deal alone with the Government of British Columbia. It is a matter wherein the Legislature has given no mandate to the Government to present the case on behalf of the people of the Province. To this extent the Commission may be described as a dwarfed inquiry, and it is quite evident, from yesterday's proceedings, that the case for British Columbia, substantial as it is, leaves much to be desired in the matter of presentation. It is regrettable, indeed, and especially in view of the restrictions imposed, that Premier Oliver is not in a position to appear before Mr. Justice Martin.

At yesterday's session an effort was made to have the case for the return of the railway lands heard on behalf of the Conservatives of British Columbia. The attempt was squelched in its inception by the Commissioner, who probably is not aware that some sixty per cent of the voters in the Province are represented by the Conservative Party. It is quite true that the railway lands problem is in no sense a party question. It is a matter to be dealt with, so far as a case for British Columbia is concerned, by the Legislature as a whole. That is exactly what has not been done. At the last session of that Legislature Premier Oliver introduced a resolution on the subject. Another resolution on behalf of the Conservative Party was introduced by Mr. H. Despard Twigg. By the wish of Premier Oliver both resolutions were allowed to die on the order paper, the Premier giving his assurance that before anything was done the matter would be discussed by himself and the Government with the leader of the Conservative Party. It is somewhat transparent that Mr. Justice Martin, who cannot be assumed to know very much about the matter, is unaware of the political history of the case which he is now investigating.

Possibly it is due to this lack of knowledge that Mr. Justice Martin esteemed it the right course to pursue to refuse the Conservative Party a hearing before his Commission. We think, and many thousands of others will think the same, that the Commissioner's policy is a short-sighted one. It is, however, a policy to which, once committed, he will be forced to adhere, and doubtless all others who desire to present their viewpoints on the subject of the railway lands, or the Peace River Block, or any aspect of Better Terms, will be refused a hearing. Thus the Dominion Government, through its Royal Commission, is determined to deal alone with the Government of British Columbia in a matter in which that Government has no mandate from the Legislature. The bulk of public opinion in the Province has not been consulted. A temperate request on the part of the Conservative Party to obtain a hearing has been somewhat brusquely refused, and there the matter rests. In resting there it is fairly obvious where the onus belongs when the problem is considered from a party political standpoint. The Government at Ottawa intends to deal alone with the Government here, and yet common sense would suggest that in a problem of such a momentous character it is the Legislature of British Columbia which should have the right to say what British Columbia's case should be, and the Legislature is made up of Conservatives, Laborites and Independents—as well as Liberals.

OLD AGE PENSIONS

Enough time would appear to have elapsed to make all the necessary arrangements between the Federal and Provincial Governments for the institution of the Old Age Pension scheme in British Columbia. The putting into effect of the legislation is not a complicated affair. The machinery exists in this Province, inasmuch as the Provincial Government has decreed that the Workmen's Compensation Board will handle the pensions. The wisdom of this decision has been questioned because the Board has not earned the reputation of being sympathetic or broad-minded in the interpretation of its duties. There is this, however, to be said in favor of the administration of old age pensions by the Workmen's Compensation Board, namely, that no extra expense should be involved.

The point is that, considering British Columbia's enthusiasm for the scheme and the Government's repeated declarations of its adhesion to the policy, old age pensions should now be in effect. Three months have elapsed since the Federal legislation was passed. The British Columbia Legislature had previously notified its acquiescence in what was proposed. The Government has had the intervening time to make the necessary arrangements with the Federal authority, and pensions should now be in effect. To those who have been looking forward so eagerly to the legislation, and among them so many who can only visualize the remainder of their lives in months or a brief few years, the delay is not understandable. Only official red tape or official indifference can account for the procrastination in putting the Old Age Pension legislation into effect.

MASCULINE DRESS

While women have seen the light in the matter of hygienic clothing, and allowed the light to see them, men are still in a very backward state of reception to health-giving customs. The male sex is the subject of a certain castigation by Lady Bowden in an article she has written in The Empire Review. Woman, she says, has divorced herself from her voluminous floor-sweeping petticoats. She has got rid of her stuffy restraining sleeves. The clanking accoutrement of corsets is no more, and these articles of clothing no longer function for architectural purposes. The modern raiment of woman, she calls, "sensible and graceful.' Her body receives light and air and her limbs move with lissomeness and freedom.

It is quite different with man. His body, Lady Bowden says, is still supported by those two Doric columns, "whose tubularity he seeks in vain to mitigate by means of a trouser press." He girds his neck with a collar which is drawn close with the help of a tie. He strives, indeed, to make his garments air-proof. It is a matter of sack-like arrangements. Lady Bowden asks when man will allow his tailor to make suits fit for heroes to live in? She is especially caustic about the uniform of the golf course. She alludes to the ear-splitting plus fours, "which serve no conceivable purpose, hygienic, athletic or aesthetic." Lady Bowden believes, that in both men and women the functions of clothing are for "decoration, decency and defence," and that clothing should be chosen with these ends in view. Woman's modern motto has become, "How to be healthy, happy and handsome, though dressed." Man, it appears, is as yet too conservative a creature to make any radical change, though Lady Bowden believes that the day is coming when men will adopt such "sensible and comfortable garments for everyday wear as kilts and cricket shirts." In the matter of reform she advocates kilts instead of trousers, the burning by the public hangman of neckties and detachable collars and the making of bowler hats a penal offence. In such an event she is persuaded that the masculine section of the race would be healthier and happier.

RESTOCKING TROUT LAKES

Mr. J. H. Castley, the superintendent of the British Columbia Division of the Dominion Department of Fisheries, is on Vancouver Island engaged in a plan of restocking different lakes in the vicinity with trout. As well as those lakes he has already in view for this purpose he should consider Shawnigan Lake. For the development of fishing on the Island some consideration also might be given to obtaining supplies of the little gammarus—a fresh water shrimp—which have been introduced with such success in Oregon lakes. It is a fattening luxury for trout, and those which ordinarily stop growing when they are seven or eight inches long have been known to grow twice or thrice that size where they can obtain gammarus for food. The shrimp can be imported from Nevada, or at least that is where it was obtained from by Oregon a few years ago with notable results.

Despite the operation of the Workmen's Compensation Board and the widespread propaganda of "safety first," accidents are increasing in Ontario. In 1926 there were 65,916 accidents in industrial undertakings, as compared with 60,012 in the previous year, and 58,675 in 1924. The fatal accidents numbered 400 in 1926, 345 in 1925 and 402 in 1924.

Note and Comment

By R. B. D.

We have outlived all our superstitions and most of our credulities, but we still believe in fairies—for we were born and "brought up" in a country where ghosts abounded, and never saw a ghost, whereas we have a distinct recollection of seeing a fairy and hearing her sing in a sweet, tuneful, piping little voice, "Oh, it's nice to be a fairy, so graceful, light and airy; it's nice to be a fairy, with a pair of purple wings!"

* * *

But we do not base our belief in fairies upon that fair vision of far-off days when the world was young and life was gay. We believe there must be fairies, because there is a fairyland. We believe that on bright moonlight nights when golfers have ceased from golfing on the Colwood golf course and the weary caddies are at rest, the fairies must sing and dance on the green and velvety fairways and under the majestic oak trees on the links. If they don't, then the fairies, like the ghosts, must have vanished from the face of the earth, for every passing year seems to increase the unequalled charms of that wonderfully beautiful golf course.

* * *

We are therefore sure that the fairies must have heard about the Colwood golf links, and on the pleasant moonlit Summer evenings must hold their revels there, singing and dancing just like that little fairy we heard sing and saw dance in the days of long ago. And from what we know of golf and have seen of golf, we believe the fairies must have a far more delightful time singing and dancing on the golf links than the golfers have playing golf there. For the game of golf, like everything else in the world, is in a state of evolution. It began its career of conquest one of the simplest of games. Today it is one of the most complex of games. We suppose the first golfer started out to play with one or two crude clubs fashioned by his own hands, with one ball (probably quite as crude in form and substance as the clubs), and that any natural hole in the ground, with a natural bunker guarding it, was considered good enough to try and drive and coax that obstinate ball into.

* * *

There was a championship golf competition at the Colwood Golf Links last week (there is another championship competition there this week), and an old friends of ours, who is a member of the Colwood Club, and seems to think that he is honored above most men in being a member of it, insisted that we should be his guest for a day and go out and see the course and the accomplished golfers playing the game. We have given our impressions of the links. Now we shall give our opinion of the modern golfer and the modern game of golf.

* * *

The original golfer played with one ball and carried one or two clubs; if he had an extra ball in reserve he did not publicly exult in his state of affluence. The modern golfer is equipped with an arsenal of clubs and balls, but he does not carry them himself. He is attended by a satellite who bears the burden, and gives him occasional instructions on the finer points of the game.

* * *

The arsenal of the modern golfer is called a bag, and that bag may be bristling with as many as twenty clubs and may be loaded with from half a dozen to a dozen balls. And an extraordinary feature of the modern game of golf is that while the expert modern golfer may only play on an average four shots to a hole, each shot being made with a different club, he considers it necessary to load his unfortunate caddy with about fifteen clubs which are used only in cases of emergency. And there are seldom any emergencies at all the lexicon of the expert golfer.

* * *

The complexities of the modern game of golf and the precision with which the modern golfer played his shots would have been very interesting to us if that interest had not been submerged by our sympathy for the overburdened caddy. Not that we have ever heard a caddy complain about the increasing load that is being piled upon his bent back. The caddy is as willing and patient as the gentle quadruped that in the olden days used to plod along with panniers slung over its back. And the mental strain and the physical strain upon the caddy must be about equally balanced, as in the case of the quadruped bearing the panniers, because it must be quite a task to remember the names and uses of all the different clubs in the bristling arsenal.

* * *

And yet if there were to be a popular revolt against the complexities of the modern game of golf and the game were reduced to the state of its ancient simplicity, there probably would be an economic and industrial crisis throughout the world. The game is played by millions upon millions of people. The manufacturing of golf clubs is an important industry in Great Britain and the United States. The more clubs the modern golfer thinks he needs to play the game as he thinks it should be played the greater the stimulus to the business of the club makers. The more difficult the courses are made, the greater the number of clubs required to overcome the artificial obstacles and the more gardeners and laborers employed upon the courses. So the ordinary golfer need not worry, for he knows in his heart that he can make the round in quite as few strokes with the four or five clubs to which he is accustomed as he could if he were encumbered with a caddy carrying twenty-five clubs. Therefore the ordinary golfer is not likely to start an agitation that might produce an economic and industrial crisis.

DISAPPEARING FORESTS

Your editorial article of the second instant, entitled "Depleted Forests," and the letter of Mr. Frank D. Barnjum of the 15th instant, are encouraging signs of awakening interest in the preservation of our timber.

It requires no great foresight to realize that if present methods of lumbering are pursued much longer in this Province, our forests will soon be a thing of the past.

It is an established fact that the trees in the primeval forests of British Columbia range in age from eight hundred years upwards, and it is therefore idle to imagine that by reforestation they can be rehabilitated.

The lumber baron, with unlimited wealth at his command, finds it easy to buy any of the so-called experts unscrupulous enough to assure the gullible public that the removal of forest giants is absolutely necessary in order to make room for the new growth. Why it is that the decadence of our forests has only recently been suddenly discovered remains a mystery, and it is a mystery that the people of British Columbia would do well to have solved before they accept it as fact.

To quote two examples from my own experience: The huge trees which were removed by the operation of the Stamp sawmill at Alberni, and the Muir sawmill at Sooke, have been replaced with a noticeably insignificant growth, although it is fifty or sixty years since they were cut. It would appear that those in authority in the Province are more concerned with stuffing the insatiable maw of the Treasury than in the conservation of our forests. It is repeatedly reported that even Strathcona Park, which was specifically set aside as a sanctuary for our native flora, has been alienated under the specious arguments I have quoted.

Another, and possibly one of the most important phases of the question, is this. Are we of the present generation sole owners of the patrimony which has descended to us? I maintain that we are but the guardians of our natural resources, and hold them in trust for the younger generation which at present has no voice in the management of our public affairs, and that their rights should be considered.

The people of Victoria should be particularly interested in the beautiful native forest near Goldstream, which, unless they bestir themselves, will soon be but a hideous scar on the countryside. Could a more beautiful park be imagined so close to a city of this size, embracing, as it does, Mount Macdonald, Mount Braden, the stream commonly known as War Creek, and all the native forest and flora adjoining.

William Cullen Bryant, in his beautiful "Forest Hymn," most adequately sets forth what should be our attitude towards our forests:

. . . . the century-living crow
Whose birth was in their tops, grew old and died
Among their branches, till, at last, they stood,
As now they stand, massy, and tall, and dark,
Fit shrine for humble worshipper to hold
Communion with his Maker.

ROSE SHOW TO BE HELD ON SATURDAY

Mr. and Mrs. Butchart will Officially Open Exhibition at 3 P.M. at the Crystal Garden

Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Butchart have consented to officially open the Rose Show of the Oak Bay Rose Society at 3 p.m. on Saturday next, June 25, in the banquet hall of the Crystal Garden. This show will be the fourth annual event to be conducted here by the Oak Bay Rose Society, and it promises to eclipse all the previous successful rose exhibitions of the organization.

The intercity competition between Victoria, Seattle and Vancouver is creating great interest, and will undoubtedly produce the finest display of roses ever shown in Victoria. As these exhibits must be grown in the open, the show will be an object lesson to all growers of roses on Vancouver Island.

Entries in all classes are well above previous years, and the committee directing arrangements for the show has extended the time for the reception of entries until the day of the exhibition.

Among the prizes to be competed for are: The Salisbury Cup for twelve exhibition blooms, Hudson's Bay Cup for six exhibition blooms, the McColl Cup for six garden or decorative roses, Dr. Walker's Cup for the best dining table decorated with roses only, and many other cups and cash prizes.

The Oak Bay Society's rose show is being held Saturday under the distinguished patronage of Lieutenant-Governor R. Randolph Bruce. Miss Helen Mackenzie is patroness, while the vice-patronesses are Lady Barnard, Mrs. R. P. Butchart, Mrs. H. R. Beaven and Mrs. W. C. Nichol.

Charcoal is the carbonaceous substance left from wood after its other elements have been driven off by heating, without allowing it to undergo combustion. This is done by burning the wood with only a limited supply of air, so that the other elements are consumed while the carbon remains almost undiminished.

TERMS OF CASE ARE DEFINED

Royal Commission on Railway Lands Sets Out Its Instruction as Requested by B.C. Government

IMPORTANT ISSUE IS FULLY STATED

The Royal Commission which is dated March 1, 1927, under which Mr. Justice W. M. Martin, of Regina, is conducting the investigation into the claims of British Columbia for the return of the Dominion railway lands and the Peace River Block reads as follows:

"Whereas, in accordance with paragraph 11 of the Terms of Union and under the authority of subsequent legislation, the Province of British Columbia did convey to the Dominion of Canada (in trust, to be appropriated in aid of the construction of the railway mentioned in the said paragraph 11) approximately fourteen and one-half million acres of the public lands of the Province of British Columbia:

"And whereas the said paragraph 11 of the Terms of Union was negotiated and agreed to; and the subsequent legislation hereinbefore referred to was enacted so as to be in accord with and in sequence of the avowed policy of the Government of Canada, which avowed policy was to secure the construction of the railway mentioned in paragraph 11 at the cost of the public lands of Canada, and of such Provincial public lands as were made available for that purpose:

"And whereas, in pursuance of the policy hereinbefore mentioned, the Government and Parliament of Canada did by resolution appropriate one hundred million acres of public lands in aid of the construction of the said railway:

"And whereas the avowed policy of the Government of Canada (which policy was the basis upon which approximately fourteen and one-half million acres of the public lands of British Columbia were conveyed to the Dominion of Canada) was subsequently abandoned in whole or in part, with the result that British Columbia has not received the equitable consideration to which she has been justly entitled:

"And whereas British Columbia has contributed her full quota of land in aid of the construction of the railway mentioned in the Terms of Union as if the whole cost of the said railway had been met from public lands and no portion thereof had been met by moneys from the public treasury of Canada:

"And whereas approximately $73,000,000, public moneys of the people of Canada, has been expended in aid of the construction of the railway mentioned in the Terms of Union:

"And whereas one result which has accrued is that the Province of British Columbia, having paid in full by way of land grants, has been compelled to pay a second time as contributing to the payment of the $73,000,000 hereinbefore mentioned:

"And whereas a further result which has followed the completion of the construction of the railway mentioned in the Terms of Union has been that the people of the Province of British Columbia have, ever since the completion of the railway, been compelled to pay for services of the railway, rates greatly in excess of those chargeable by the said railway or by any other railway in any other part of Canada, thus in effect compelling the people of British Columbia to pay a third time for the construction of the said railway:

"And whereas no other Province of Canada was required to or did contribute any public lands in aid of the said railway:

"And whereas had British Columbia not been required and, in fact, had not contributed any lands in aid of the construction of the railway hereinbefore referred to, she would still have had no advantages over the other provinces of Canada in respect thereto:

"And whereas the lands conveyed by British Columbia in trust to the Dominion of Canada have not been appropriated by Canada for the purposes for which they were conveyed, nor in accord with the said trust:

"And whereas the Government of the Province, moved by the reasons (among others) hereinbefore recited, has, by a Minute of Council approved by His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor on February 17 last, requested the Government of the Dominion of Canada to take such steps as were necessary to reconvey to the Province of British Columbia the lands purporting to have been conveyed to the Dominion in sequence of the Terms of Union.

GOLD COINS ARE FOUND IN CANAL AT CHESTER

CHESTER, Eng., June 21.—Discovery of 200 gold coins in the bed of a local canal has caused England's first native gold rush. The prospectors did not stake their claims but rushed to the canal, which had been emptied temporarily for repairs.

The discovery was made by a boy, who took the gold home to his mother, and she announced the news to her neighbors, who proceeded to the canal and carried out a thorough search.

Some of the searchers obtained as much as twenty pounds. The mystery of the gold find is believed to be explained by the death of a woman who lived nearby. After her death, an old mattress, which was partially burned, was thrown into the canal. Apparently the woman had hoarded gold in the mattress.

Large Fish Is Speared With Toasting Fork

Harold Bower and Jack Lindsay, two Cranleigh House school boys, spending the week-end at the school camp at Cordova Bay, while out on a raft using the campfire toasting fork as a spear, caught and landed a deep-sea cod which was swimming in about four feet of water.

The fish, one of the largest ever speared in the bay, measured four feet six inches in length, and, weighed at the Japanese gardens, tipped the beam at 36½ pounds.

Court Cannot Restore Licence to Sell Beer

VANCOUVER, June 21.—That the beer parlor licence, which had been granted to Albert James Lake, proprietor of Commercial Hotel, 340 Cambie Street, conferred a privilege and not a right, was the finding of Chief Justice Hunter in Supreme Court today when His Lordship dismissed mandamus proceedings against Hugh Davidson, chairman of the Liquor Control Board, and the board, for the return of the licence.

"I am of opinion that the application must be dismissed," said His Lordship. "The language of the statute is explicit; and the board can suspend the licence for any reason it sees fit."

He added that the act intended that the licence was a privilege; and for that reason there was no right to apply to the court for it. There was no right of application whatever, he said.

Escape From Death at Niagara Is Miraculous

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., June 21.—James Robinson, of Fort Wayne, Ind., and James Scott, La Salle, N.Y., had a miraculous escape from death last night when the automobile in which they were driving plunged over the bank of the Niagara Gorge, turned over twice and caught on a tree, nine feet from a sheer precipice which dropped 300 feet to the river.

Robinson will appear in court tomorrow on a charge of driving while under the influence of liquor and his companion will appear on a drunk charge.

Lad Nearly Drowned; Rescued by Friend

William White, of 42 Montreal Street, plunged off a boat belonging to Mr. Currie, tied up at Chinaman's Landing, Saturday. The lad, being unable to swim, was soon in difficulties and would have been drowned but for the efforts of thirteen-year-old Hugh Kelly, 143 Niagara Street, who plunged in fully dressed and helped William to the side of the launch, where willing hands soon had them aboard.

Kelly had had a year's swimming instruction at the Y.M.C.A., and undoubtedly saved White's life, according to those who saw the accident.

DEGREES GIVEN AT PRINCETON N.J.

MR. REGINALD PEGRUM AND FIVE OTHER CANADIANS MADE DOCTORS OF PHILOSOPHY

Honorary Degrees Bestowed Upon Hon. Vincent Massey, General Pershing and Others

PRINCETON, N.J., June 21.—Included among the 449 students who were graduated from Princeton University at commencement exercises, were five Canadians, who received the degree of Doctor of Philosophy. Two from Western Canada were: Reginald H. Pegrum, Victoria, B.C., University of Alberta, 1923, geology; Charles S. Evans, Vancouver, University of British Columbia, 1924, geology.

PRINCETON, N.J., June 21.—Hon. Vincent Massey, Canadian Minister to the United States, today received the honorary degree of Doctor of Law from Princeton University.

REPRESENTS GOODWILL

"He represents the peace which has for more than a century prevailed along our unprotected border and the goodwill which was never more pronounced than now," said Professor Magee, in awarding the degree at the annual commencement exercises.

"In a few days the blaze of 10,000 bonfires will link the long miles from Cape Breton to Vancouver to celebrate the sixtieth year of the Dominion's life.

"In this auspicious year and in the light of the joy and pride in achievement which these fires symbolize, we welcome the worthy representative of a great and independent power."

Professor Magee referred to Hon. Mr. Massey as "an active political worker and a sound adviser on national affairs."

GENERAL PERSHING

General John J. Pershing also received the degree of Doctor of Laws. In presenting General Pershing, Professor Magee referred to his extraordinary tact and skill in directing the training, transportation and distribution of the American Expeditionary Forces, his "super-magnanimity in urging union of all forces under one command and his "serene confidence in his officers and men."

Other honorary degrees were: Barry Emerson Fosdick, New York, "a leader for many to whom the formulas of the church are unsatisfying, but who still hope to see in these latter days the gospel of the Kingdom of God guiding and controlling the world," Doctor of Divinity.

Funeral Is Held

The funeral of Frederick Elworthy took place from Hayward's B.C. Funeral Chapel yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock, Rev. F. A. P. Chadwick officiating. A large number of friends attended, and the casket and hearse were covered with beautiful floral offerings.

The following acted as pallbearers: Messrs. J. L. Beckwith, J. W. Spencer, A. C. Flumerfelt, S. J. Pitts, P. Wollaston and J. O. Cameron. Interment was made at Ross Bay Cemetery.

COMPANY'S AFFAIRS SUBJECT OF ACTION

Disagreement on Operation of Saw Mill at Tyee Siding, V.I., Leads to Supreme Court Trial

Disagreement on the operation of the sawmill at Tyee Siding, Vancouver Island, resulted in the affairs of the Tyee Lumber Company being the subject of a law suit which commenced yesterday morning before Mr. Justice Morrison in the Supreme Court here.

It is a consolidated action in which Harry Hastings, on behalf of himself and other holders of debentures in the defendant company, is the plaintiff, and the Tyee Lumber Company and Charles Ernest Hastings, and Roberts John Hastings are defendants. In the other issue, Harry Walter Arthur is the plaintiff, and Dorothy Ethel Hastings, Bertha Wadeson Hastings and Charles Ernest Hastings are the defendants.

Mr. William C. Moresby of Victoria appeared for the plaintiffs, while the defendants were represented by Messrs. W. W. Lefeaux and H. I. Bird, both of Vancouver.

INCORPORATED IN 1920

The Tyee Lumber Company was incorporated in January, 1920, with a capital of $40,000, divided into 400 shares of $100 each, to take over the sawmill at Tyee Siding, Vancouver Island, as a going concern.

Plaintiff claimed that, on April 8, 1924, directors of the company resolved to issue at par a series of debentures for $30,000 to consist of ten debentures of $1,000 each, thirty debentures of $500 each, fifty debentures of $100 each, bearing interest at the rate of 7 per cent. per annum.

It was charged that the company failed to pay interest due on the debentures, to pay personal property tax, municipal taxes, Workmen's Compensation Board charges, the balance of the purchase price of land to the E. & N. Railway; to keep the machinery and logging equipment in repair, to provide a sinking fund, and to pay wages due to workmen.

It was claimed the company had imperilled the security of debenture holdrs by incurring liabilities and indebebtedness to the extent of $42,355.38, and by operating the mill and plant of the company during 1925 at a great loss.

SEEKS DECLARATION

On behalf of himself and other debenture holders, plaintiff seeks a declaration that they were entitled to a charge upon the undertaking and all of the property in the company, and on account of what was due to them.

They also seek endorsation of the appointment of H. W. Arthur as receiver and manager of the company, and a declaration that Charles E. Hastings and Robert John Hastings are trustees for the company of the land and premises subject to a mortgage upon them.

Hearing in the action will be continued this morning before His Lordship in the Supreme Court.

News and Notes of Realty in Victoria and District

By H. D. PATTERSON

The last week has not been prolific of sales. Brokers claim to have had a fair number of inquiries, and many speak of having sales under way but not completed. With one or two exceptions, local people are doing the buying. The inquiry for furnished houses is very disappointing compared to the same period of last year.

Pemberton & Son report sales as follows: A new stucco semi-bungalow of seven rooms on Newport Avenue to a local purchaser, the vendor taking in part payment two lots in Rockland Avenue district; a lot on St. Patrick Street to a local investor; a lot on Chapman Street to a local purchaser; a very choice parcel, containing about two acres on the waterfront at Cadboro Point to a newcomer from the Eastern States, on which a very fine home will be built; a lot on Montrose Avenue to a local investor; a lot at Langford Lake, and a residence in Esquimalt to local purchasers.

J. C. Bridgman has sold a parcel of vacant property on the Blenkinsop Road to a local purchaser.

The Royal Trust Company have disposed of houses in James Bay, one on Cross Street and one on Simcoe Street, the tenants being the purchasers in each case.

Alfred Carmichael & Company, Limited, have sold two lots in their Saseenos subdivision at Sooke for Summer homesites.

A well-known local financial man has purchased the property at Cadboro Point, belonging to Mr. J. C. Richards. This consists of about eleven acres, with considerable waterfront, and the purchaser will erect a large residence thereon.

Brett & Ker, Limited, have sold a bungalow of five rooms on Dupplin Road to a local purchaser.

Heisterman, Forman & Company have disposed of a property on the Island Highway at Langford to a California purchaser, who will build in the immediate future.

Oak Bay seems to have caught the fancy of the speculative builders this year, whereas Fairfield was the favorite spot for them last year. Many new homes are also being built on contract in Oak Bay. The Seacroft Apartments on the Marine Drive, near the Oak Bay Hotel, is fast taking shape under the hands of Luney Brothers. Mr. Charles Waikden's Bungalow Court is making great strides towards completion.

H. R. Brown has signed a contract to build an up-to-date six-room bungalow, of Spanish design, for a recent arrival from China, to be erected on Margate Street, at the corner of Newport.

With a background of magnificent oaks, a bungalow of English cottage design has been built on Hazel Street by Messrs. Matson & Fairall. Of stucco, with green shingle roof and trimmings, surrounded by a raised terraced garden, it comprises a hall with linen cupboard, large living-room with oak floor and pressed brick fireplace, dining-room with oak floor and a sideboard fixture, breakfast-room, Dutch kitchen in white enamel, two commodious bedrooms with closets and bathroom with built-in tub. The basement contains a pipeless furnace.

Another bungalow of unique appearance is being erected by J. A. Walker & Company on Patrick Street. A thatch effect has been used in the roof, and a gable of pleasing appearance breaks the lines of the front elevation. The living-room of this house has an oak floor with mahogany border, and an art tile fireplace. A similar floor is laid in the dining-room, one bedroom is large and one commodious; the bathroom contains a recessed tub and shower; there is a breakfast nook and the Dutch kitchen contains a combined sink and laundry tray. The garage is incorporated with the house.

BERRY PICKERS BUSY; SEVENTEEN CARS LEAVE HERE

The strawberry season on the Saanich Peninsula is now in full swing, three cars being shipped yesterday, one in the morning and three in the afternoon over the Canadian Pacific Railway system. Total shipments of the luscious berry to date amount to seventeen cars, and there is every prospect of another twenty-three before the close of the season.

Hundreds of pickers are busily engaged in harvesting the crop, which has been helped along by recent cool mornings and sunny afternoons. Many local boys and girls are earning pin-money in the berry patches and are also gaining a healthy tan from the outdoor life.

ROCKIES SAID TO BE NO BARRIER

Prairies and B.C. Tied Together by Mutual Interests, Declares Saskatchewan Speaker

VANCOUVER, B.C., June 21.—Unity and harmony among the divergent elements of Canada were objectives stressed repeatedly by speakers at a luncheon given here today by the Laurier Club executive to the Prairie members of Parliament who have just concluded a tour of the Lower Fraser Valley.

"No parts of Canada are so closely tied together by mutual interest as the Prairies and British Columbia," said Mr. MacDonald, former M.P. for Prince Albert. "The mountains are no barrier. Let us get together and work to this great end for our mutual benefit."

Mr. Coote, M.P. for Macleod, said it was his desire to work for improvement of the condition of the private citizen. "It is my idea that it is the duty of government to look after the welfare of the native Canadians and if their conditions are attractive, immigrants will want to come."

STRANGLER ASKS FOR CONSUL'S ASSISTANCE

WINNIPEG, June 21. — Breaking through his mask of silence, behind which he has maintained an air of brazen confidence, Earle Nelson, charged with the murder of a Winnipeg woman, and a fourteen-year-old girl, gave the first indication today that he realized the magnitude of the indictment against him.

At his own request, the prisoner, who is held here as the "strangler" sought throughout the North American continent for the murder of twenty women, asked that he might confer with a foreign official whose name the police declined to reveal.

Asked why he wanted to see this official, Nelson replied: "I am charged with two murders, but I'm not the one who done it."

When informed that every prisoner is given a fair trial in Canada, and that there would be no attempt to interfere with the natural course of justice, Nelson merely turned away and slumped into one of his characteristic moods of unconcern.

JAPAN TO SEATTLE FLIGHT ANNOUNCED

SEATTLE, June 21.—Japan will be the starting point of the proposed Seattle-Tokio flight instead of the Pacific Coast, Lieut. Carl Ben Eellson, Arctic flyer, who yesterday announced his intention to attempt the gigantic hop, indicated tonight.

No airport in Seattle, which has offered a $25,000 purse for the first aviator to complete a nonstop flight from this city to the Japanese capital, has a runway long enough to enable a heavily-loaded plane to take off safely, he said. Weather conditions, it was said, would be more favorable on an easterly flight than a westerly one.

Woman Acquitted

HULL, Que., June 21.—Mrs. Diana Lacroix, sixty-three, woman who had faced three separate murder trials within two weeks in connection with deaths of infants at her "baby farm" in South Hull, early this year, was acquitted of two of the charges late today. She had been acquitted on June 8 of the first charge.

Today's acquittals were received by loud cheers by spectators in the courtroom.

The American Woolen Company reports a deficit of more than $7,000,000. You only had to glance at women's apparel to know this was inevitable.

Photographer—Smile, madam. Look pleasant!

Husband—Don't do that! If you do nobody will recognize you!—Pele Mêlé, Paris.

SUMMER SHOW TO BE HELD JULY 22

GARDENERS OF VICTORIA AND DISTRICT WILL HOLD FOURTH EXHIBIT AT CRYSTAL GARDEN

Entries Must Be Filed With Secretary Boulter by Monday, July 18

The Victoria and District Gardeners' Association will hold its fourth annual show in the banquet hall at the Crystal Garden, July 22 and 23. Mayor Carl Pendray will open the show at 3 o'clock.

The aims of the association are to improve the beauty, increase the usefulness and extend the number of gardens in Victoria and district and for that purpose to hold exhibitions and competitions. Past shows held by the gardeners have been well patronized and have contained representative exhibits both from the gardeners themselves and from commercial agricultural concerns. To judge from the programme recently off the press the July exhibition will be one of the finest ever held.

The exhibits will range from displays of cut flowers, Summer fruits and vegetables to collections of wild flowers. A decorated table competition, open to ladies only, will be one of the features of the show. Judging will be by popular vote, with several substantial cash prizes offered to the winners. A silver challenge cup, donated by Mrs. J. Nairn, will be offered as first prize for a collection of not less than six varieties of vegetables. The competition is open to school children only, the age limit being sixteen years. A miniature challenge cup will also be given by Mrs. Nairn to the successful exhibitor.

The W. C. Nichol challenge cup will be awarded to the winner of the highest number of points in all competitions. Three points will be allotted for each first prize, two for each second and one for each third prize.

Among the numerous prizes are quantities of seed, nursery stock and other goods kindly donated by commercial growers. A very strong prize list should prove ample reward to the successful contestants.

Mr. J. A. Hibberson has donated a chalenge cup to be given for a collection of wild flowers, open to children sixteen years and under.

Entries for the show must be in the hands of the secretary, Mr. F. E. Boulter, 1465 Woodlands Road, by July 18.

FLIGHT DELAYED

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N.Y., June 21.—A storm howling up the Atlantic to the Grand Banks today extinguished for yet another day the hope of four men intent upon flying to France. Commander Byrd seemed optimistic about the prospects for an early departure until a weather report received from New York showed that a storm centre of considerable intensity had moved up from Hatteras, was east of Nantucket and heading directly for the Grand Banks and the great circle course, close to which Byrd will fly.

NAIL POINTS

When you drive a nail into your wall to hang a picture on, do you ever pause to think that you are using something almost as old as that of humanity itself?

A nail, over two and a half pounds in weight and thick in proportion, was found in the ruins of Troy. And similar enormous nails have been recovered from the remains of lake dwellings and other places where prehistoric man made his home.

All nails were originally made at home. Then, when the smith became a specialist craftsman, he made the nails of the community, until a special nailsmith started in business. In the fifteenth century there was a guild of nailsmiths in Augsburg.

The first nailmaking machine was invented in Britain at the end of the eighteenth century, and a little later the first nail factories were at work in Birmingham.

FLIGHT TO INDIA IS NOT LIKELY TILL FALL

LONDON, June 21.—A further attempt by the Royal Air Force to make a non-stop flight to India before Autumn is now being considered, Sir Samuel Hoare, Secretary of State for Air, yesterday told the House of Commons, but that as far as could be seen it would not be possible to make another attempt before early Autumn because of storms in North India.

An attempt to set up a non-stop flight record to India was started last Saturday by Flight Lieutenants C. R. Carr and P. H. Macworth. The aviators' big bombing plane, however, was forced to descend about 100 miles from its starting place when trouble developed in the oil system.

Lieutenant Carr in a previous attempt to reach Karachi, India, in May, was forced down in the Persian Gulf.

Thousands of Victorians To Be Disappointed Today

Crystal Garden, Scene of Press Club Frolic Tonight, Holds Only 3,000 Persons While Population of Greater City Is 62,000

Fifty-nine thousand citizens are going to be badly left tonight.

The Press Club is putting on a Massacre Dance and Marine Ambush at the Crystal Garden and everybody can't go.

The population of Greater Victoria is estimated at 62,000.

The capacity of the Crystal Garden is estimated at 3,000.

You can figure it out for yourself.

However, there is still a chance. While the Press Club has had tickets on sale at The Colonist Office and The Times Office, the general sale will take place at the entrance to the Crystal Garden this evening—and it will be a case of first come, first served—and the show starts at 9 o'clock.

Eat a light dinner, tighten your belt, come down early and enjoy the most devasting night of your career.

In arranging this frolic the Press Club has thrown discretion to the winds, staked all on one throw. It's going to be an eye-opener.

There will be dancing at both ends of the Crystal Garden, with the Garden orchestra and Ozard's orchestra dispensing the music, and, at the same time, a programme of aquatic sports in the great pool.

Mme. Lamy, from Paris, will sing; six dancing beauties, in orginal costumes, will demonstrate the latest steps; Miss Madeline Woodman, fifth most beautiful girl in the world, will pose; the "Human Comet" will do a "flame dive" into the pool and—well, scan the programme.

9:45 p.m.—Mme Lamy, from Paris.

10:15 p.m.—Dancing beauties in original creations.

10:45 p.m.—Miss Canada (Madeline Woodman).

11:00 p.m.—Gondola Parade.

11:15 p.m.—Human Comet in flame dive.

11:45 p.m.—Mme. Lamy sings "La Marseillaise."

WATER NOVELTIES ALL NIGHT

Commencing at 9 o'clock, and continuing all evening, a programme of novelty aquatic events will be staged in the mammoth Crystal Pool. The events will include the following:

Centipede race.
Mop fighting in canoes.
Pillow fight on greasy pole.
Tug-of-war in canoes.
Fishermen vs. swimmers.
Novelty costume race.
Greasy pole.
Rugby polo game.
Fancy diving.

Directions—Press Club ball—Crystal Garden—at 9 o'clock tonight—tickets fifty cents.

Five of the Six Beautiful and Graceful Victoria Girls Who Will Demonstrate the Latest in Dancing at the Press Club's Double Dance and Water Carnival at the Crystal Garden, Starting at 9 o'Clock Tonight.

PARIS FROWNS UPON BOYISH BOB VOGUE

Feminine Trend of Fashion Spells Doom for Close Crop

PARIS, June 21.—The boyish bob is about to be routed by the frills and furbelows, the ruffles and bows, that make up the very feminine fashions introduced this Spring by the Parisian dictators of style, according to the pronouncements of the International Hairdressing Exhibition held in Paris recently.

This particular haircut, with its tendency to elongate the neck, needed to nestle to be pleasing, into the framing background of a great fur collar or at least into a fairly high turnover collar of some sort. The incongruity of such a length of neck rising above the flat necklines of the gowns and low, furless collars of this season's coats, has been distressingly apparent for some time. Various expedients were adopted to break that awkward line—the shoulder flower, the great chou of net attached at the back of the necklace, and the scarf, tied at one side, being familiar methods.

That none of these solutions was very satisfactory has spelled the doom of the boyish bob it is now asserted. Not that this means the immediate or even quick return of long hair. Hair does not grow so readily as all that, nor would women be likely to give up so easily the comfort of short locks. Both feminine opinion and reluctant hair must be coaxed along in easy stages, these experts admit, the first stage being a slightly longer haircut, known as "Joan of Arc," or "Ninon," with a straight outline well down on the neck.

One version of this new bob allows the top front hair to sweep back from the forehead, uncut until it reaches the low point on the neck designated as the proper length. Waves in the shorter hair at either side of the face provide individually becoming lines. In the evening, when bobbed hair of any cut is declared to be "out," the advantage of having this long middle section is peculiarly apparent, for it can be swept about the back of the head and fastened at one side to provide a close foundation for the little puffs, braids or twists that are designed to be pinned on about the base of the head as the wearer chooses. Or, again, the hair can be drawn rather high on the back of the head with this long centre section forming a mass of piquant, tossing curls.

Manuel is showing new transformations known as demi-wigs, from the fact that the hair at the back reaches just to the shoulders and may be handled just as the growing hair is arranged, in a low knot or wrapped about the head.

Court of Appeal

Texas & Pacific Coast Oil Co., Ltd. vs. Grant & Grant: An appeal by defendants from the judgment of Mr. Justice D. A. McDonald in an action for a declaration that certain investments made by defendant, J. R. Grant, in 1924 and 1925 in oil lands in Texas, were executed and carried out by him as trustee for the plaintiff company; also that investments by him in oil properties on behalf of his wife were made with intent to defraud the plaintiff company. He was president of the company from January to July, 1924, and by resolution of the directors, was authorized to transact the company's business in Texas. In July, 1924, he was appointed managing director at a salary of $200 while he was in Texas, to devote his whole time to the company's business. He acquired, while agent for the company, certain oil leases which he later sold for $50,000, half cash and the balance in notes. A portion of the money was received, but the plaintiff claimed that it was not accounted for in full. In 1925 he purchased an interest in another property for $1,190, and it was sold for $60,000. Defendant said this concern would not sell to the plaintiff company, so he bought it in his wife's name. In April, 1925, he was instructed not to purchase any more properties, but afterwards he purchased a property at $17.50 per acre, a portion of which later sold at $150 per acre.

The trial judge was of opinion that the defendant was responsible to the company for all purchases made by him, and that there should be an accountancy. He appealed, but the Court of Appeal agreed with the trial judge and dismissed the appeal.

Mr. Gordon Grant and Mr. O'Dell for appellants, Mr. R. L. Reid, K.C., for respondent company.

Galt vs. Waterhouse is an appeal by defendant from the judgment of Mr. Justice D. A. McDonald. Plaintiffs, the Galt Steamship Company, sued to recover freight under a contract of November, 1925. Defendant had an order from certain Japanese shippers for herring and salmon to be forwarded to Ss. Shidzuoko at Seattle. The defendant, not having a vessel available, wrote to plaintiffs confirming a telephone conversation, instructing them to ship the fish, which were on a scow, to Seattle to connect with the ocean-going vessel. This was to be done as soon as possible, and freight bills forwarded. Plaintiffs failed in getting the fish to Seattle in time and had to bring it back to Vancouver from Seattle, put it on another ship, the same people accepting it. The freight bills were made out to the Japanese purchasers, who refused to pay, as they received no benefit from the abortive shipment to Seattle and back.

The trial judge gave judgment for the plaintiff in $889.20, and defendant appealed. Argument is proceeding.

Mr. D. N. Hassle for appellant; Mr. A. E. Beck, K.C., for respondent.

Religious Sect Lives in Forest Life of Savages

BLAGOVESHENSK, Amur Province, U.S.S.R., June 21.—Mystery surrounding the fate of two settlements of Russian peasants, members of a religious sect who are said to have fled from the horrors of civil war in Siberia during 1918-20 to the wild Kinzano forests of Northern Amur, has prompted the newspaper Amur Pravda to dispatch an expedition in search of them.

They are said to have had no contact whatever with the outer world since 1919, living by fishing, hunting and otherwise leading a primitive life. Their existence was first reported by native trappers several months ago who occasionally caught sight of long-bearded haggard figures, who disappeared in the bush the moment they were observed.

Fashion Fancies

By Marie Belmont

Beige, brown and white flannel is used with very effective results in the sports frock shown above.

The jumper is striped in three colors, while the pleated skirt is white flannel edged with beige and brown. With this is a white flannel coat edged with the two colors which bind the skirt, thus completing a sports ensemble.

Beige and white combined are being featured in exclusive sportswear shops. White skirts with beige sweaters and hats make an unusual combination which is entirely new for Summer.

A Watched Pot Never Boils!

THIS homely old adage has a real foundation in the fact that every lift of the cover allows part of the heat to escape, and lengthens the time required for cooking.

The same principle applies to the frequent peeps in the oven that are necessary when there's no scientific regulation of heat.

It not only seems longer when you have to watch the pot; it actually is longer.

But thanks to modern science, the up-to-date gas range assumes this burden and controls the heat at exactly the right degree for whatever you are cooking. You need not even stay at home during a long, tedious baking. Nothing will overcook. Nothing will undercook.

The little heat regulator keeps a sharp watch, controlling the heat more accurately than you could do it.

Of course you'll have one of these ranges in your kitchen sooner or later. Why not get it now and enjoy its helpfulness through the Summer months?

To Obtain Relief From Neuritis

The nervous system must be thoroughly restored. Here is a case which illustrates this point.

The twitching of nerves and muscles warned Mrs. Mapletoft of the exhausted condition of her nervous system. She also had frequent nervous headaches and persistent neuritis in her right side.

Only temporary relief can come from external applications for neuritis. To really get rid of the cause of trouble it is necessary to thoroughly restore the exhausted nerves by the persistent use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Mrs. Wm. Mapletoft, Mount Forest, Ont., writes:—

"For about three years I suffered from neuritis in my right side. I had pains through my back and twitching of the nerves and muscles. I had also been operated on for appendicitis, and it left me a nervous wreck. I was very restless and uneasy, and bothered with frequent neuralgic headaches. My appetite was poor and I sometimes took weak spells. I commenced a treatment of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and in a very short time I found relief. This medicine has done me the world of good and I can recommend it to all suffering as I was."

HON. S. F. TOLMIE LEAVES ON TRIP

LEADER OF CONSERVATIVES WILL VISIT NORTHERN PART OF PROVINCE

He Will Attend Jubilee Celebration of Confederation at Williams Lake

Hon. S. F. Tolmie, M.P., Leader of the Conservatives of the province, left last evening after a day spent at his home following a tour of the southern part of the province. He will pay a visit to the northern parts of British Columbia on this trip, meeting the various associations of the party and acquainting himself with the conditions thrpughout the different sections of the country.

The present trip will take him to Prince Rupert, and along the line of the C. N. R. He will be away from home for a couple of weeks or more, it is anticipated.

July 1 will be spent by Dr. Tolmie at Williams Lake in the central part of the province. He will, by invitation, take part in the Jubilee celebration of Confederation there.

Speaking of the situation in the parts of the country that he has visited since the North Okanagan by-election, Dr. Tolmie says that there is a marked enthusiasm on the part of the Conservatives with respect to the general election results, when that event takes place. There was little need, as far as he was able to judge, for any increase in the feeling of confidence even before the election in North Okanagan; but that result had a reassuring effect upon the different sections of the country as to the general sentiment that prevails.

Presentation Is Made

The teaching staff of the Tillicum School entertained at a tea on Friday afternoon, having as their guest of honor Mrs. C. T. Moore, who is retiring from her position as janitor of the school at the end of the term. The party was presided over by Mrs. Hume, the principal, Mr. O'Neill proposing the health of the guest of honor. Mrs. Moore was presented with a beautiful table lamp of antique design, and in making the presentation on behalf of the staff, Mr. O'Neill spoke a few words of appreciation to Mrs. Moore for her excellent work in the past, and wished her every happiness in her new sphere of life. Mrs. Moore replied briefly, thanking the staff most sincerely for their good wishes and the beautiful gift.

BALDNESS AND BRAINS

Many claim that the bald pate is a sign of intelligence, but others point to statistics to show that the intellectual giants of history have been those with luxuriant hair.

After a careful study of the problem, I am sure that there is no direct relation between the amount of hair and the amount of intelligence. There is no doubt, however, that the one with strong hair usually has more vital power, but this may either be used in the physical body or through the mind.

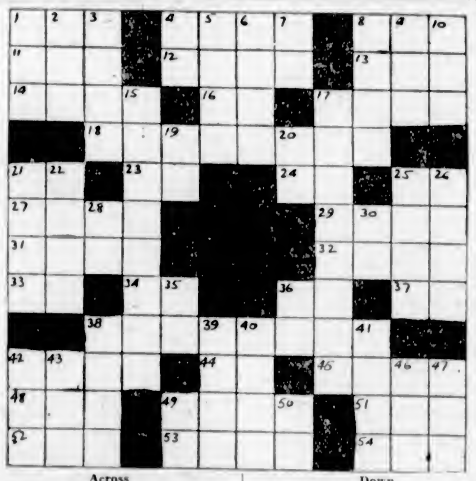

The circulation of blood to the hair roots is not the same as to the brain, and the scalp which has a poor blood supply may cover a brain with a good circulation. The skull separates the scalp from the brain, and one of the common causes of baldness is that the blood circulation just under the scalp is not as active as in other parts of the body. This is usually due to what is called a "tight scalp," and the bald man cannot, as a rule, wiggle his scalp back and forth. If the blood supply to the scalp is not in good condition, or defective, the hair will not be nourished properly. Each hair grows very much the same as a young onion and requires the right amount of irrigation of blood to its roots if it is to grow into a strong hair.

Those with a tight scalp can save themselves from becoming bald if they will use some measure for increasing the scalp circulation. Tonics are of practically no value, but a good treatment may be given with the daily application of ice to the scalp. Hold the piece of ice to different places of the bald spot until the skin reacts and becomes red. Then massage with the finger tips, rubbing in cocoanut or almond oil. Another good way to bring the blood into the scalp is to sunburn it with ultra-violet rays from sunlight or from an ultra-violet lamp. Don't waste time on guaranteed tonics, as there is always a catch in it some place.

Some bald-headed men are so optimistic that they will buy one hair tonic after another, even from their bald-headed barber. I heard, the other day, of a man completely bald who always buys a brush and comb every time he buys a new guaranteed hair tonic. This is what I call "the height of optimism."

Systematic physical culture exercises will always help in increasing the general circulation and actually be a great help in supplying a better circulation to the scalp. It is also important to use all of the foods rich in silicon, which is the principal mineral used in growing hair, nails and bones. All of the greens are rich in silicon, and a plentiful supply may be obtained from real whole wheat grain.

The numbered definitions are of words which, when correctly thought out, fill the white spaces in the diagram. Each number represents the beginning of a word, reading either across or down to a black square. A black square to the left of the number indicates a horizontal word; above a number, a vertical word. Both vertical and horizontal numbers may begin a word, though inspection of the puzzle will show this is not always the case. The correct words will have one white space for each letter and will interlock accurately and satisfy the definitions. The horizontal and vertical words are different, and through the definitions serve to check each other off with cross-clues, from which you can recognize other words. The best method of solving is, first, to fill in, down and across, all the words you are absolutely sure of. Then go over the imperfect words, referring to the definitions. The skeletons of words will often suggest another word and by degrees—plus persistence and ingenuity—the entire series of words will cross correctly. All the words are found in standard lexicons.

BALDNESS AND BRAINS

Annual Pound Party at Protestant Orphanage

The annual pound party of the B. C. Protestant Orphanage will take place tomorrow afternoon from 3 to 6 o'clock.

The event this year falls upon the thirty-first anniversary of the laying of the cornerstone of the orphanage, and the Ladies' Auxiliary, which is always responsible for the carrying through of the undertaking, hopes the numerous friends of the institution who have generously remembered the occasion in the past will not overlook the opportunity to assist at the present time with donations of fruit, sugar, flour, oatmeal, jam and staple groceries of other kinds. No tag day is to be held this year, and therefore much more than usual will the orphanage depend upon the pound party to supply some of the things which are much needed for the larder.

There are forty-three boys and girls in the home at the present time—fortunately very healthy children with healthy appetites and growing bodies. Everyone interested in the work will be cordially welcome, and an opportunity will be given to see over the home.

The reception committee tomorrow includes Mesdames Walker, Longstaff, Elliott and Fraser. The receiving committee convener will be Mrs. Dillabough, and Mrs. McEwan will have charge of the tearoom.

WESTERN CEDAR IS BEST FOR SHELLS

Rusty Callow Expects Use of New Material to Aid in Making Varsity Record

POUGHKEEPSIE, N.Y., June 21.—Lighter shells in use this year should enable oarsmen to set a new record in the four-mile varsity race on the Hudson here June 29, believes Rusty Callow, head rowing coach of the University of Washington, titleholders.

Shells of western red cedar, now in use by Washington, California, Navy and Pennsylvania, are the fastest boats ever used in the race, Callow said. The native red cedar was substituted for a Spanish variety this year by George Pocock, boatbuilder. Pacific Coast Indians used the wood in the construction of their war canoes, some of which still exist.

The shell to be used by Washington in defence of the title is called the Totem and weighs only 270 pounds, as against the 1,500 pounds aggregate weight of the nine men it will carry.

The result of this match was the big upset on a card featured by many brilliant exhibitions of the net game.

Jack Muir, George Sparling and A. S. Milne continued to advance in the men's singles, with other favorites playing up to form.

JOEY SILVER WINS

SAN FRANCISCO, June 21.—Joey Silver, San Francisco lightweight, defeated Pete Meyers, another local boy, in ten slashing rounds at the Monarch Club tonight.

Mrs. Reed Leads in Qualifying Round With a Score of 84

Mrs. Guy Riegel Is Second With 87, Followed by Mrs. Sweeny With 88—Victoria Has Five in Championship Flight—Five Tie for Last Place—First Round in Championship Flight Starts Today

While the men's amateur championship play probably held away at the Colwood Golf and Country Club yesterday, it is doubtful if there was half as much interest manifested in it as the women's championship, which got away with eighteen holes of medal play. Mr. K. S. Reed, of Portland, occupied the spotlight when she slipped around the difficult eighteen holes to turn in the splendid card of 84 to head her nearest competitor by three strokes for the medal honors.

"Not bad for a woman," many of the professional and amateur golfers, who gave the card the once over, were heard to say, but as a matter of fact excellent and much better than some of the less than four and less than ten handicappers could do.

CHAMPION WELL UP

Mrs. Guy Riegel, of Spokane, the defending champion, took next berth to Mrs. Reed by turning in a card of 87, while Mrs. S. C. Sweeny, four times holder of the crown, was next with an 88. These three were the only ones to break ninety. Mrs. Sweeny was out in thirty-nine, but found trouble in the second lap and finished with 49 for a total of 88.

Victoria has five in the championship flight, including Mrs. Forbes Wilson, better known as Miss Margaret Sayward, British Columbia champion; Mrs. Walter Parry, Mrs. C. A. Armstrong, Mrs. J. Hutchinson and Mrs. B. R. Philbrick.

There were five tied for the last two places in the qualifying round and Mrs. E. Cooney and Mrs. McAllister won off in the play-off.

Rose City Has Seven Stars Battling for Pennant at Colwood

Victoria's Hopes Blasted in First Rounds—Dick Moore, Jack Matson, Harold Lineham, N. Thornton Fell, Frank Thomas and Golden Terry Lose

Victoria's hopes of winning the P.N.W. amateur golf crown were blasted yesterday at the Colwood Golf and Country Club when the six survivors of the gruelling thirty-six holes of medal play fell in two rounds of match play before the fine play of as many outsiders. Although most matches were decided by wide margins, the local players put up stiff opposition and Harold Lineham took his man to the thirty-eighth holes before being conquered by the redoubtable George Shaw of Los Angeles.

The defeat of Dick Moore, seventeen-year-old Victoria College student, British Columbia champion, Jack Matson and Harold Lineham, Thornton Fell, Golden Terry and Frank Thomas completely blasted Victoria's early hopes of having a champion named by this city.

MACHINE-LIKE GOLF

Although anything might happen in the game of golf, the mowing down of the local hopes by outside machine-like play completely took the wind out of the sails of the "knowing" ones.

Many figured that nothing in the way of spectacular upsets marked the first rounds of the match play with the exceptions of Dick Moore and Matson.

Moore was looked upon to go well into the match play along with Matson, while Lineham, Thomas, Terry and Thornton Fell were expected to provide plenty of competition before taking the count.

EX-CADDIE BEATS MOORE

The most spectacular upset of the day was the elimination of Dick Moore, who failed to get on his game at any stage against Fred Woods, ex-caddie from Vancouver, and lost the decision by a 9-and-8 margin in the thirty-sixth holes.

All the American outstanding contenders came through, in comfortable style. Frank Dolp of Portland, who won the medal honors Monday, piled up a three-hole lead on Golden Terry of Victoria during the morning eighteen and finally settled what argument there was, by a score of 7 and 5. Dolp's afternoon round was beautiful golf. He was never over four's at the end of the thirteen holes played.

WATSON COMES BACK

Forest Watson, defending champion, had an uphill battle on his hands against Jack Fraser of Vancouver. With fourteen holes of the morning played, Watson was four down, but he won the next three in a row to knock-off for lunch one down. In the afternoon Watson picked up two holes on the outward journey to round the turn one in the lead and to finally win on the thirty-fifth green, 2 and 1.

Russel Smith of Portland, a former champion, ran into his usual extra-hole match, when he tangled with Vincent Dolp. At noon Dolp had wiped out an adverse margin of three holes and was all square. In the afternoon Dolp was two up and three to go, but he took three putts on the thirty-fourth green, to lose the hole, and missed a ten-foot putt for a "birdie" on the next, that would have settled the match, for half and at the thirty-sixth got into "tiger" country and lost the hole.

V. DOLP'S DOWNFALL

The extra hole was not particularly brilliant for either. Both drives were right down the middle. Dolp was trapped on the right with his iron, while Smith pushed his second to the rough. Smith's recovery was weak, thirty feet short of the pin. Dolp played an explosion shot but there was hard ground beneath the sand and his club skidded, sending the ball to the far edge of the green. Dolp's approach putt was six feet short, while Smith slipped several inches past the hole. Dolp failed to get the cup and Smith won the hole and match with a five for a par four hole.

Smith in the past dozen years has been involved in as many extra hole matches in the Pacific Northwest tournament, and has won them all but one. In 1915 he lost at the second extra hole to Jack Neville at Tacoma.

LINEHAM LOSES AT 38TH

One other extra hole match marked the play. George P. Shaw of Los Angeles, and Harold Lineham, Colwood, were all square at the end of the first eighteen and still even at the thirty-sixth in the afternoon. They halved the thirty-seventh in par four's, but Lineham hooked his second to a bunker at the thirty-eighth and took six against Shaw's par four.

Of the sixteen players, who will enter the second round today, Portland has seven representatives. In addition to Frank Dolp and Russel Smith, the Rose City survivors include: Rudie Wilhelm, Oregon state champion, who defeated Gene Hatton, Seattle, 16 and 15; Don Moe, who had a struggle to eliminate Hugo Haakons of Seattle, 2 and 1; Roy Moe, victor over Jack Matson, 8 and 7; Dr. O. F. Willing, who was close to even four's in disposing of Lee Steil of Seattle, 4 and 3; and Guy Standifer, who took a 4-and-3 decision over Dr. J. M. Johnston of Seattle.

SEATTLE HAS FIVE

Seattle has five players surviving — Bon Stein, who breezed through to a 7-and-6 win over C. J. Perkins, Vancouver; Bryan Winter, Frank Thomas' eliminator, 2 and 1; Bill Davidson, who disposed of Thornton Fell, 3 and 1; F. E. Williams, who beat Fred Jackson of Seattle, 1 up; and Ralph Whaley, who won from Carl Havens of Seattle, 3 and 1.

The other four remaining players include two Spokane men, Forest Watson and Jimmy Wall, who measured Dr. Sam Slocum of Portland, 7 and 6, with F. J. Wood of Vancouver, conqueror of Dick Moore, and G. P. Shaw of Los Angeles.

The outstanding match on tomorrow's programme will see the present titleholder, Forest Watson, tangling with Rudie Wilhelm, a former champion. The other matches are: Whaley vs. Stein, Smith vs. Wall, Winter vs. Don Moe, Roy Moe vs. Shaw, Davidson vs. Wood, Willing vs. Williams, and Standifer vs. Dolp.

Play will continue over thirty-six holes match play in the championship and first flights, and over eighteen in the second, third and additional flights.

The results of yesterday's championship match play follow:

Forest Watson beat Jack Fraser, 2 and 1.

Rudie Wilhelm beat Gene Hatton, 16 and 15.

The boys plan to run in relays with an automobile accompanying them, each to travel ten miles before resting.

It is planned to start the run from Seattle at 5 o'clock on the afternoon of June 30, under the auspices of the Mayor of Seattle, and to finish at Brockton Point twenty-four hours later during the Dominion Day Athletic programme there.

The event has been sanctioned locally and gold medals offered if the boys complete the run.

Y.M.C.A. Swimming Classes Popular

The Y.M.C.A. swimming classes for boys and girls, which opened yesterday afternoon, were largely attended—so large, in fact, that two groups of boys had to be made in order to carry out the instruction.

The times announced for Saturday's classes are as follows: girls, 9:30 a.m.; boys, first group, at 10:15 o'clock, and second group at 11 o'clock.

SCOTTISH FOOTBALLERS TO PLAY HERE TONIGHT

Victoria All-Stars To Try Their Skill Against the Scots

Best Soccer Players of Victoria Go Into Action This Evening With Touring Team Which Has Lost but One Game in Crossing Canada

Soccer fans throughout the Dominion of Canada from the farthest point east to the mainland, Pacific Coast, and Vancouver Island have been afforded the opportunity of witnessing the touring Scottish footballers in action. They have seen their dazzling speed, their cleyer displays, and have been treated to such exhibitions of association football as perhaps they have never seen before.

Victoria fans have anxiously awaited the arrival of the Scots, and tonight, when they make their appearance at the Royal Athletic Park at 6 o'clock, attendance records will without doubt be smashed. They will oppose an all-star eleven selected by the Lower Island Football Association, and a team that will make a good showing for their city. The local eleven is comprised of eight members of the team which defeated the Canadians here last month, while Cameron, Alex. Whyte and Bob Preston have been included to make what is supposed to be the strongest team in the city.

THE LAST DEFENCE

Bridges, goaltender of the Esquimalt aggregation, will assume his usual position between the posts. Tommy has played a fairly consistent game throughout the season, and today he will be kept busy using his knowledge of the game in an effort to prevent the clever visitors from sagging the net too freely. Billy Campbell, of the Saanich Thistles, and Alex. Whyte, of the Navy, will form the fullback division. Both players have a good knowledge of the game, and are capable of playing a first-class brand of soccer. Hosmer, Bob Preston and Peden will form the halfback line. Preston will work in the pivot position, and will captain the local eleven.

The first line of attack will see Alex. Cameron, speedy right winger of the Victoria City team, in his usual position. John Watt, of the Dockers, the man with a bullet drive, will play inside right. Danny Glancy, rated the best centre forward in the city, will be out to register the odd goal for the locals. Glancy comes from the land of the heather, and has plenty of good football in his system. Warren, another member of the Esquimalt team, will hold down the inside left position, while he will have his colleague, Wagland, as his wing man. These men are fast, and both are capable of playing a really good game.

In the announcing their team for tonight's game the management of the touring Scots state that the wing men that will play are the best players for their positions on the tour. Six of the men who will be seen here tonight played at Nanaimo on Saturday, and their exhibition was that which clearly displayed their knowledge of the game to the fullest extent.

YOUNG BUT WELL GROWN

Hamilton, of the Rangers, who will perform between the sticks, is one of the youngest members of the team. Standing six feet in height and weighing 174 pounds, his exceptional reach enables him to take the high shots with ease, and he has a large pair of hands with a clutch that never fails him.

Buchanan, who will play right back, stands five feet eleven, and tips the scales at 166 pounds. He has played in every position including goal, and has never failed. Daniel Blair, a dapper little defender, who may fairly be described as the stylist of the party, will play left back. He has a quick incisive manner of going in to tackle the man with the ball; is graceful in his methods of clearing his lines, and seldom makes the mistake of overkicking his forwards. He is regarded as a coming international back by football critics of the Old Land.

Muirhead, who will be seen in action at right half, is a member of the Rangers. He has a light and dainty touch and is seen to greatest advantage on the attack. He has a habit of making a quick thrust with the ball at his feet and shooting on the run. James Simpson, centre half, is a youthful son of Anak, who has played in practically every position, but has found his natural position, that of center half. Few high balls will pass him, for he uses his head with excellent judgment. Andrew Swallow, left half, is of the versatile kind, who plays a supremely useful game without any showiness. He never neglects his forwards, who can be sure of getting the ball placed nicely at their feet.

SMALL BUT GOOD

The attacking force will have Adam McLean at outside right. Adam, who tops the scales at 154 pounds, is one of the small and good ones. A natural footballer, he stepped from the juvenile ranks into the Celtic team in 1917, and has never been out of it since except through injury.

Patrick Gallagher, inside right, is known as Scotland's wizard, although born in Ireland. For his size and physique, he is perhaps the most wonderful player alive. Gallagher is a football genius who can do anything with inflated leather. His ability to perceive the weak point in his opponent's defence and to play upon it is positively uncanny. He has played for Ireland against Scotland and England.

J. Munro, who will fill the centre forward position, is one of those husky boys who knows the way to the goal. Two goals per match is his quota. He stands six feet in height and does a lot of scoring with his head, as his height allows him to get the high shots across the wing. John Hunter, inside left and captain of today's team, is a forward of the best Scottish traditional type. Quiet in his methods, but admirably effective in holding the ball, as every good forward should be able to do, he gives a clean-cut pass along the ground for his partner to take in his stride. William Cook is known to soccer followers in the Old Country as the "Little Blue Devil" through his ability to meamerise his opponents by the intricacy of his footwork. He can turn in the space of a saucer and leave his rivals wondering where he has gone. Today local fans will have the opportunity of seeing just what kind of devil he is when he performs at outside left.

The visiting team will be numbered for the convenience of the spectators. The principals in this soccer classic, the time and the place are as follows: At the Royal Athletic Park. Kick-off at 6 o'clock sharp. Referee, MacMillan. Linesmen, Scottish, A. Cunningham; Victoria, Ralph Alcock.

The teams will line up as follows:

Arthur Havers Is First In Golf With Canadians

Displaces Dave Black From Lead in Last Round to Win by One Stroke—Rimmer Has Poor Score for Wind-Up—Whitcombe's 70 Lowest of Day

MONTREAL, June 21. — Arthur Havers, former holder of the British open golf championship, won the 72-hole competition between members of the British Ryder Cup team and the team of Canadian professionals, thirty-six holes of which were played at Toronto Saturday, and the final thirty-six over the Royal Montreal course here today.

Havers turned in 75, 72—147 today, which, with his 149 at Toronto, brought him from a tie in third place to the lead with a score of 296.

One stroke behind, in second place, was Dave Black, of Shaughnessy Heights, Vancouver, who was leading the field at the end of the fifty-four holes, but who found trouble at the ninth in the afternoon round, taking an eight and having a total of 150 here today and 147 at Toronto.

In third place was Andrew Kay, Lambton, Ontario, with 299. Kay was a factor until the eleventh hole this afternoon, when his ball was lost, only to be found in the fairway. The incident upset Kay and he faltered for the remainder of the journey in. Kay had 153 at Toronto and 71, 75—146 today.

Jimmy Rimmer, leader in the first thirty-six holes, passed out of contention in the final round today, the Jasper Park professional taking an 82 and having a total of 303 for the seventy-two holes.

Rimmer had bad luck and lost his lead when a cinder got into his eye at the thirteenth. It was so painful that a doctor in the large gallery following the Jasper Park professional was forced to stretch Rimmer out on his back to remove the cinder from his eye.

DISASTER NEAR AMERICAN STAR

MISS HELEN WILLS HAS HARD JOB TO WIN IN FIRST ROUND AT WIMBLEDON

Miss G. R. Sterry Gives Her Stubborn Battle—Tilden and Hunter Win in Straight Sets

WIMBLEDON, June 21.—Disaster hovered about the head of fair Helen Wills at Wimbledon's centre court today in the opening round of the women's singles championship, but with courage and characteristic driving, she came through finally.

The California girl defeated Miss G. R. Sterry, of England, after one of the most stubborn battles she had been called upon to face since she lost to Suzanne Lenglen. The score was 6-3, 3-6, 6-3.

The game was played on soggy, heavy courts, under low, threatening clouds after a heavy downpour. Ten thousand spectators remained in the gathering dusk in the expectancy of seeing the American girl make short work of the youthful English girl. But she gave the Californian a surprise, and when she won the second set there was enthusiastic cheering.

Miss Wills appeared chilled and did not remove her sweater until the second set, then hastily put it on again at the beginning of the third. Only in the first set did she show the energy in attack for which she is noted.

EXCELLENT FORM

Miss Sterry played remarkably well. Her backhands were noteworthy. She also drove both with speed and length; her forehand was good and her service magnificent, for she aced Miss Wills no less than five times.

The American girl passed the first set with difficulty, but she received a real shock at the stubborn defence and aggressive play of her opponent in the second. From the very first she was compelled to fight for every point, and many games went to deuce.

In the second round of the men's singles, both William T. Tilden and Francis T. Hunter maintained American prestige. Tilden defeated R. D. Poland, England, in straight sets, 6-3, 6-0, 6-1 while Hunter took the measure of the veteran English player, Lieut.-Col. Algernon Kingscote, to the tune of 6-3, 6-3, 6-4.

A surprise in the men's contest was the defeat of Louis Raymond, of South Africa, by George Crole-Rees, England, Raymond being the second seeded player to fall by the wayside.

La Coste, Cochet, Borotra and Brugnon, all of France, and Kozeluh, of Czecho-Slovakia, advanced to the third round safely.

FAVORITES WIN

Mrs. Kitty McKane Godfree, Mrs. Beamish and Miss Bennett, of England; Miss Tapscott and Miss Heine, of South Africa; Miss Bouman, of Holland, and Seorita De Alvarez, of Spain, favorites in the women's singles, all passed from the first to the second round.

Owing to the derangement of the schedule caused by the rain, Mrs. Molla Mallory and Miss Elizabeth Ryan, United States, and the schoolgirl, Betty Nuthall and Cecile Aussem, of England and Germany, respectively, did not have an opportunity to appear on the courts.

Miss Sterry is the daughter of Mrs. Alfred Sterry, formerly Charlotte Cooper, who five times won the all-comers ladies' singles of Great Britain.

Miss Sterry won the junior singles championship in 1922, and with Miss Nuthall took the hard court doubles championship at Torquay last year.

Winnipeg Racing

WINNIPEG, June 21.—Silent Pardner, owned by Mrs. W. J. Stokes, sprang a surprise in the running of the Royal Alexandra Handicap when it won handily from Remnant and paid 6 to 1. Dudley, the short-priced favorite, carrying 132 pounds, was never prominent.

Jockey S. Holecko received a fractured skull when his mount, Kremlin, fell in the running of the third race. It is thought the boy's head hit one of the uprights of the track enclosure when his horse stumbled. He is in hospital.

MAUNGANUI DUE HERE SATURDAY

Vessel Nears Coast in Service of Canadian-Australian Line—Behind Schedule

The R.M.S. Maunganui, of the Union Steamship Company of New Zealand, is expected to reach William Head from the Antipodes at 6 o'clock on Saturday morning, according to advices received here yesterday.

The Maunganui, which is replacing the R.M.S. Niagara while the latter vessel is undergoing a general overhaul, is a day behind schedule. She is commanded by Captain A. C. Showman, of the Niagara. After the Maunganui has completed her present voyage Captain Showman will return to the bridge of the Niagara.

The Maunganui has been switched from the San Francisco-Australasian run. She is a vessel of 11,340 displacement tons and is 430 feet in length. Her beam is 55.6 feet. She was built in 1911 by the Fairfield Company, Limited, of Glasgow.

CHALLAMBA MAY BE ABANDONED

VANCOUVER, June 21.—Hung bow and stern on rocks at Whitecliff Island, thirty miles south of Prince Rupert, Ms. Challamba, of the Pacific Ss. Company, is reported sagging in the middle and likely to be abandoned by the owners.

The ship's hull is strained and her engines are out of commission, it is reported. She ran aground at high tide on Friday. The Vancouver tugboat Cape Scott and the Vancouver Drydock and Salvage Co. work outfit from Prince Rupert are endeavoring to salvage her, but it is expected she cannot be refloated before Saturday or Sunday next. She has a hole in her side, and about sixty tons of cargo is being moved.

The Challamba was built in 1918 at Olympia, Wash., for the Commonwealth Government of Australia, and made one or two voyages before being sold to United States registry. She is a wooden vessel 262 feet long, 46 feet beam, 21 feet deep. Her sister ship, Ms. Coolcha, went on the rocks at Albert Head, Vancouver Island, during the Winter gales of February, 1923.

The time used is Pacific standard for the 120th Meridian west. It is counted from 0 to 24 hours, from midnight to midnight. The figures for height serve to distinguish high water from low water. Where blanks occur in the tables, the tide rises or falls continuously during two successive tidal periods without turning.

The height is in feet and tenths of a foot, measured from the average level of lower low water.

Equimalt—To find the depth of water on the sill of the drydock at any tide, add 18.9 ft. to the height of high water as above given.

SOUTHERN LINE ESCAPES INJURY

Southern Pacific Main Line Through Southern Louisiana Unimpaired by Mississippi Flood

ROAD ASSISTS IN RED CROSS WORK

"Southern Pacific main line through Southern Louisiana, connecting New Orleans with Texas and with the West and Middle West, has been unimpaired by flood waters of the Mississippi and in the Atchafalaya basin, and has been in continuous operation under practically normal conditions throughout the entire period of high water, handling not only its own traffic, but also the freight and passenger traffic of several other railroads whose service is interrupted by flood conditions," Mr. H. M. Lull, vice-president Southern Pacific lines, in Texas and Louisiana, said in a statement received here yesterday.

"The crest of the flood on both the Mississippi and Atchafalaya has now passed the Southern Pacific main line and the waters are receding," Mr. Lull said. "Owing to protective measures taken in advance of high water, the track and roadbed remain in first-class condition, and all traffic is being handled over it on normal schedules and without delays.

"In addition to its regular freight and passenger service, this company has performed large service over the past thirty days in assisting the Red Cross in evacuating thousands of refugees from flooded areas, as well as hundreds of carloads of household goods and livestock. It is expected that flood waters will continue to recede and that by the end of this month a large portion of the submerged cultivated areas in the Atchafalaya Basin and adjoining the Southern Pacific will be out of the water and in condition to permit planting late crops," declares Mr. Lull.

RIALTO DEVELOPS SPEED ON TRIALS

SAN FRANCISCO, June 21.—The motorship Rialto, which sailed from Trieste for this port May 15 on her maiden voyage, is the fourth vessel of her type ordered by the Navigazione Libera Triestina from the Stabilimento Tecnio Trestino, for their service between Italy and this coast.

On her trial trip, it is reported, she attained a maximum speed of 13.75 knots. The Rialto is a passenger and cargo liner fitted with a six-cylinder four-cycle engine of 3,200 i.h.p. The service maintained by the N.L.T. between the Mediterranean and Pacific ports is increasing daily, and the company is considering further improvements, according to officials of the General Steamship Corporation, which company is general agent on this coast for the Italian concern.

GARLAND MAY SELL VESSELS

RUMORS OF BIG SHIPPING DEALS ARE CURRENT IN SAN FRANCISCO

Luckenbach Line Is to Be Purchased by Subdiary of I.M.M., Reports Say

SAN FRANCISCO, June 21.—Several big shipping deals are being negotiated here, according to reports, with the prospects that some of them will be completed in the near future. These reports, all unconfirmed, are:

That the Garland fleet of six ships is to be sold, with C. L. Dimond, former owner of the Newport and Cuba, and the Quaker Line, both among the bidders. The Garland Company has had several chances to sell three of its ships following the line's withdrawal from business during the British coal strike, but has held out to sell all or none of its vessels.

That the Luckenbach Line is to be purchased by a subsidiary of the International Mercantile Marine Company, the parent concern being restrained from such a purchase because of its ownership of foreign tonnage. This rumor just now is very persistent.

That several ships of the Quaker Line will be taken over by a competing line.

That Sudden & Christenson, operating the Arrow Line in conjunction with the Columbia Pacific Shipping Company of Portland, is breaking away from that company and intends to tie up with other interests.

STEAMER DOCKS AT EARLY HOUR

Inbound from the Orient, the Nippon Yusen Kaisha liner Kaga Maru docked at the Rithet Consolidated piers at an early hour this morning.

The Kaga had nine first-class and nineteen third-class passengers for disembarkation here. There were 100 tons of cargo in her holds for discharge at the Rithet Consolidated piers.

C.P.R.'S WORK ON CLYDE IS COSTLY

Company Has Eight Vessels Building Or on Order on Clyde Alone—New Liners Attract Interest

TREMENDOUS SUM IS REPRESENTED

It is difficult to estimate the value of the work now being done in British shipyards for the Canadian Pacific Steamships, Limited, but the total is almost certainly greater than that of work being done for any other shipping company, says The Syren.

With the two additional "M" class lines of 18,000 tons to be built by John Brown & Company of Clydebank, there are eight vessels on the Clyde alone—these two; the sister-ships placed in the Summer of last year at Clydebank and Dalmuir, respectively; the two North Atlantic cargo vessels of about 10,000 tons, ordered about the same time from Barclay, Curle & Company, Whiteinch; the sister-ship from William Denny & Brothers, Dumbarton, and also the 1,000-ton Pacific coasting liner ordered from Clydebank in February of this year. Including the extensive overhauling work which was being done at Fairfield on the Empress of Australia, there was C.P.R. work on hand on the Clyde about a month ago representing an expenditure of over £4,000,000 before the end of next year.

The cost of the later Clydebank ships is not publicly known, but it cannot be far short of £1,500,000, so that the total for this river must be about £5,500,000.

There are also the two 10,000-ton vessels ordered last Summer from Armstrong, Whitworth & Company, Newcastle-on-Tyne—both of which are to have engines by the Parsons Marine Steam Turbine Company, Wallsend-on-Tyne, as will also the vessels which are being built at Whitechurch and Dumbarton. The big liners will have high-pressure turbines and water-tube boilers, and so should be specially interesting from the engineering point of view.

LIRIO IS EIGHT DAYS ON VOYAGE

Picturesque Old Schooner Lirio de Agua Arrives in California to Play Fatal Movie Role

LOCAL MEMBERS OF CREW RETURN

The colorful old auxiliary schooner Lirio de Agua, doomed to be blown up or wrecked soon in a movie role, made the voyage from this port to Long Beach, California, in eight days, according to Mr. Arthur Purry, of this city, who, with other Victoria members of the crew of the vessel, returned here yesterday.

The Lirio was delivered into the hands of her new owners, the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Moving Picture Corporation, at Long Beach, California, after a smooth voyage down the coast without incident of an unusual nature.

The picturesque schooner once roamed the South Seas in the copra trade, later sailed the waters off the Mexican coast in the fishing industry, and more recently plied along the eastern littoral of the Pacific in the liquor-carrying business.

In California the Lirio will be used first in the making of a screen version of Joseph Conrad's "Romance." Later, in the making of a second picture, "Ordeal," she will be sunk to the level of her decks and then either wrecked or blown up.

Victoria members of the crew that sailed the Lirio south under Captain W. H. Collins came north on the H. F. Alexander to Seattle, and crossed to Victoria from the Sound city yesterday.

Vancouver Organist Dies of Heart Attack

VANCOUVER, June 21.—Collapsing suddenly fifteen minutes after arriving home from San Francisco, Harry Barlow, forty-nine, of Tenth Avenue West, well-known organist and resident of the city for over twenty years, died of heart attack yesterday.

Mr. Barlow was organist at Chalmers Church and later at First United Church. A year ago he went to San Francisco to play there, and returned home Monday.

The deceased is survived by his wife, two sons and two daughters, and an aged father, all of this city, and one brother in Oakland, Cal. He was a native of England.

IRISH BOYS DUE TO EMIGRATE HERE

Conditions in Ulster Far From Encouraging, Says Clergyman—Will Study Prospects

MONTREAL, June 20. — Northern Ireland, facing unemployment conditions much the same as prevail in Britain, is confronted with a serious problem in regard to the boy who leaves school. To that end the Ulster Government has established an agricultural training school at Richhill, where boys of fourteen to seventeen are trained for life in Canada.

Rev. R. Maxwell of Ligoniel, Belfast, arrived recently on the Montclare to study conditions in Canada with a view towards a greater boy emigration from Ireland. Mr. Maxwell was the guest of Rev. Dr. James Smythe of the Theological College of the United Church.

Facilities for studying farm conditions in Canada have been placed at his disposal by Col. Dennis of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company.

Mr. Maxwell on his trip here was in charge of a party of fifty boys from Britain and Northern Ireland.

Previous to leaving Ulster, Mr. Maxwell, who is a member of the Belfast Juvenile Advisory Council, was given letters of recommendation by the Hon. John M. Andrews, minister of labor, of the Northern Ireland Government, the Lord Mayor of Belfast, and John F. Gordon, M.P., parliamentary secretary of the minister of labor.

On his return to Ireland he will take up with these officials the results of his trip to Canada, and make recommendations for furthering the cause of boy emigration.

FOREIGN TRADE POOR

"Unemployment in Ireland is not due to local conditions, but to world-wide conditions," said Rev. Mr. Maxwell. "We are much in the same condition as is Britain. Our boys leave the schools and positions are not available for them, and it is natural that we should turn to other parts of the Empire where prospects appear brighter."

Mr. Maxwell pointed out that the two main industries of Belfast are shipbuilding and the linen trade. The demand for ships has fallen off, he said, while the market for Irish linens of late years has been far from what could be hoped. He was not prepared to give any figures as to what a successful boy emigrant movement from Ulster to Canada would amount to, but he believed that a considerable number of boys could be satisfactorily placed in Canada each year. The financial arrangements for sending boys to Canada are excellent, he said, due to governmental action. The extent of the movement to Canada will necessarily depend on the question of revival of foreign trade, he said, but present prospects indicate that there should be a large movement to Canada.

Attitude of Scottish Churches Is Explained

The Church of Scotland, in its resolutions, declares that it enters into fraternal relations with the General Council of the United Church of Canada; that it authorizes exchange of pulpit supply; that it assures the United Church that the Church of Scotland is animated by the friendliest feeling toward Canada.

The General Assembly of the Church of Scotland adopted the report of the union committee which has in hand the union of the two great Presbyterian churches in Scotland. This adopted report, which is the finding of the Assembly, contains these words:

"It is recommended that fellowship be maintained with the United Church of Canada and that, in the event of applications being made for admission by ministers in it, each case should be considered on its merits in accordance with the standards of the United Church (of Scotland) as already recommended in connection with applications from ministers of other churches outside the British Isles."

In the United Free Assembly the same identical report on union was adopted. This puts the United Church of Canada in exactly the same category in relation to the Church of Scotland and the United Free Church of Scotland as Presbyterian churches in the United States, Australia, etc., and the nonconcurring church in Canada.

The United Free Assembly further declares that it deplores the existing division, desires exchange of fraternal greetings between the supreme courts of the United Free Church and the churches of Canada, maintains the former relations of eligibility within the United Church and sets out the terms of eligibility for ministers of other churches in the future as being the same for both the United Church of Canada and the nonconcurring church without distinction or discrimination of any kind. The emphasis is laid upon the fully certified academic training of such minister.

Johnny: "No, but I'll bet dad could if his car was working right.

'THE MONKEY TALKS' IS PLAYHOUSE FILM

Great Cast of Players Seen in Fox Production—Starring Olive Borden

Fox Films screen version of Rene Fauchois' sensational mystery play, "The Monkey Talks," is graced with an assemblage of stellar players of more than the usual talent and popularity. This picture, which opens today at the Playhouse Theatre, was directed by Raoul Walsh, who filmed the photoplay adaptation of Laurence Stallings and Maxwell Anderson's great drama, "What Price Glory."

In "The Monkey Talks" Olive Borden, who won international success in "Three Bad Men," "Fig Leaves" and "The Country Beyond," is cast in the role of Olivette, the central figure in the development of the mystery. Don Alvarado, whose rise to fame in motion pictures has been phenomenal, plays the principal romantic role opposite Miss Borden. In the role of Jocko, the monkey who talks, is Jacques Lerner, noted French actor who journeyed from Paris to Hollywood to play the role he originated on the stage, for Fox Films pictorial version. Jane Winton, one of the newest of screen favorites, is cast in a feature role along with Raymond Hitchcock, one of America's best loved stage stars, Malcolm Waite and August Tollaire.

COLISEUM THEATRE For their final week in Victoria Nixon and his Black Bottom Girls have picked the best comedy playlet they have in their repertoire. The idea of this is to give patrons a real treat on the final week of the Nixon company. It is a comedy that will have the Coliseum audience thinking of their entertainment for a long time to come. It is called "Fun on the Briny," a real nautical musical comedy, with eight pretty sailor girls on board a ship. There is a gorgeous array of new costumes as well as new scenery. On Monday night at the opening performance this sparkling comedy caused something little short of a sensation. On the screen Bebe Daniels will be seen in the guise of a dashing caballero of South America in her latest Paramount picture, "Senorita."

COLUMBIA THEATRE Something in the nature of a sensation was revealed on the screen of the Columbia Theatre at yesterday's performance of Jules Verne's famous melodrama, "Michael Strogoff." The story concerns itself with the adventures of Strogoff on a 5,000-mile journey from Moscow to Irkutsk in Siberia, with a message from the Czar to his brother, the Grand Duke, in command of the Russian troops, who is threatened by an uprising of the semi-barbaric Tartars under Feofar, the Grand Kahn. Much of the picture is in natural color, notably the grand ball in the palace of the Czar, and the victory fete at the camp of the Grand Kahn, a scene of wild and barbaric splendor, that may well be classed as one of the most spectacular ever seen in pictures.

DOMINION THEATRE Elaborate and thorough advance plans for health preservation and accident prevention possibly saved the life of Vilma Banky during the long desert location period of the Henry King production, "The Winning of Barbara Worth," for Samuel Goldwyn, now showing at the Dominion Theatre. In preparation for such an emergency as that which occurred, Mr. Goldwyn had arranged for three doctors and two nurses to be in constant attendance during filming of all exterior scenes. First aid stations were erected at advantageous spots. An operating room was fitted with all appliances, and modern hospital facilities were provided. Sampel Goldwyn has ever been one to take the ounce of prevention and save the pound of cure.

CAPITOL THEATRE In addition to the picture attractions at the Capitol Theatre this week, there are some very attractive vaudeville turns. They introduce The Harrison Twins, in a song, dance and instrumental novelty presentation; the Dancing Brownie, and Ethyle Baley, Australian prima donna. The Capitol Orchestra, under the able leadership of Al. Prescott, is also being featured, with a special musical synchronization for the picture attractions. Is there a feeling of kinship between women of different strata of life who have never met? This is one of the things which may well be discussed after "The Telephone Girl" is seen. Why? According to the scenario, a political battle approaches its climax on election eve. "The Telephone Girl" features Holbrook Blinn, Madge Bellamy, Warner Baxter, May Allison and Lawrence Gray. Elizabeth Meehan adapted the screen play from William C. CeMille's success, "The Woman."

"Did you sleep well? I hope the bed was comfortable," asked the fulsome landlady to the new lodger after the first night. New Lodger (ironically): "Oh, yes. It's a three season bed." "Three season bed?" asked the other. "What's that?" "There's no spring in it."

LOUISE FAZENDA REACHES STARDOM

Favorite of Many Pictures Seen in "Finger Prints"—Opens at Variety Today

"Finger Prints," the Warner Bros.' production which comes to the Variety Theatre today is a crook mystery-comedy, adapted from a story by Arthur Somers Roche. It is the first picture in which Louise Fazenda, who has been starred unofficially for many seasons, is recognized as an official star by the picture producers. Thereby she takes place at the head of the Warner Bros' roster along with John Barrymore, Syd Chaplin, Dolores Costello, Monte Blue, and—since the competition in films is sometimes non-human—Rin-Tin-Tin.

Many a time Louise Fazenda, since her earliest days in Mack Sennett comedies, has stolen the applause of the show from the official stars. Time and again she has won popularity contests. Frequently exhibitors have put her name in stellar place on the theatre marquees, when the producers seemed to think somebody else was the star of the show. Regularly has Fazenda been "featured" in theatre billing. But only in "Finger Prints" has she acquired the recognition of stardom that all actors aim for. A star in fact, she now becomes a star in law.

SOCCER PLAYERS ARE BANQUETED

Touring Scottish Footballers Are Guests of the L.I.F.A. at Dominion Hotel

Members of the touring Scottish soccer aggregation and their opponents for today's game were guests of the Lower Island Football Association at a banquet in the dining-room of the Dominion Hotel last night. Mr. Alex Robertson, president of the local soccer association, occupied the chair.

In his opening remarks the chairman said: "I am not only giving you a message from the footballers of this city but from every sporting organization in Victoria." He further asked if Mr. Campbell, president of the Scottish Football Association and manager of the present tour to introduce the players to the gathering by calling out their names and asking them to stand for a moment. As each player answered the roll call he was loudly applauded.

In replying to the chairman's speech of welcome Mr. Campbell said: "The sincerity of your welcome is appreciated by the players. During our stay in your city we have enjoyed ourselves more than anywhere else in Canada. We have two things which stand out as real deeds of kindness, and deeds that will never be forgotten by myself and members of my party. The long trip taken by Jack Russell, president of the D.F.A., to Winnipeg to extend to us the hand of welcome, and the kindness of the local officials in coming to Nanaimo and bringing the boys to Victoria in automobiles." In his concluding remarks Mr. Campbell said: "It will be with tremendous regret that we will leave your fair city on Thursday."

A toast to the visitors was proposed by Alex Peden, vice-president of the L.I.F.A., and replied to by Mr. Campbell.

Gordon Cameron, president of the Victoria Rugby Union, sponsored the toasts to the D.F.A. while Jack Russell, president of the Association, made a fitting reply. During the evening vocal selections were rendered by Messrs. George Guy and J. G. Brown. Mr. Ford acted as accompanist.

Chicago Husband Sues His Wife for Alimony

CHICAGO, June 21.—Walter Brinkman, twenty-seven, has petitioned the court to order his wife, Rose Brinkman, forty, to pay him alimony and lawyer's fees. He charged he was earning a salary of $35 weekly, that she was drawing alimony from her first husband, that a railroad was paying her compensation for the death of her second husband, and that she was now attempting to divorce him, her third husband.

In the unusual petition Brinkman claimed his wife "inveigled" him into matrimony and that at the time she knew he was under a doctor's orders not to work.

Paris style makers have decreed longer skirts for sub-debs, so that they will not be confused with their elders, who wear 'em as short as they please. Also, it gives them a healthy feeling of modesty, which they will look back upon with much pride after they grow up.

BIG CREW BUSY ON TOFINO ROAD

WORK PROCEEDING ON HIGHWAY TO UCLUELET AND OTHER ARTERIES

Big Ranch Property on Long Beach Reported Sold—Rapid Development Expected

TOFINO, June 20.—Mr. Douglas Shaw, of Qualicum, who has been road foreman here for two successive seasons, and is deservedly popular among the settlers on account of his courteous deportment and the efficient manner in which his work has been accomplished, has arrived here, accompanied by a large force of men, machinery and materials with which to prosecute the work on the Tofino-Ucluelet highway this Summer. Some of the men are at present engaged in grading, while others are engaged in felling and disposing of the timber that still remains on the uncompleted portion of the road. It is expected that Autumn will see a finished right-of-way between the two places, although a great amount of surfacing work will require to be done before it will be in a proper condition for heavy vehicular traffic.

It has been reported that there is a gang of twenty-five men working on the Sproat Lake end of the Alberni-Long Beach road, which is good news to the settlers, as this country must stand still until direct communication has been established with the outside world.

It is also stated that the 604 acres comprising the Charles Tupper Harvey ranch, which is situated on the most attractive part of Long Beach, has been sold to an American millionaire for purposes of intensive development, which should tend to hasten the completion of the long-wished-for road to Alberni.

Have Close Call When Boat Burns On Fishing Trip

SOOKE, June 21.—While on a fishing cruise up the West Coast, with his son, Kenneth, Mr. W. Cains had his boat completely destroyed by fire. Without any warning the engine-room suddenly became enveloped in flames. Kenneth's face was burned on one side, as he was obliged to pass through the flames to get to the dory in which they made their escape.

A tank of gasoline and some oil was all that was saved from the wreck.

They were later picked up by a tug returning to Victoria.

MISS JOSIE HOPKINS GUEST OF HONOR AT SHOWER AT SOMENOS

SOMENOS, June 21.—In honor of Miss Josie Hopkins, who is to be married shortly, Miss G. A. Tisdall placed her home, "The Grange," at the disposal of the St. Mary's Junior W.A., who entertained on Friday afternoon, June 17, at a kitchen shower. The guest of honor was seated in a beautifully decorated chair in which she received her numerous gifts. Miss Audrey Mutter, dressed as a June bride, carried a lovely bouquet of Summer flowers. The bridegroom, Miss Helen Tisdall, looked very handsome in her dress suit and wheeled a nicely decorated wheelbarrow heaped with presents, which was presented to the bride-elect. DECIDE TO MARK ANCIENT SITES

NORTH COWICHAN'S HISTORICAL LANDMARKS TO BE PERMANENTLY FIXED

Mr. G. H. Johnson Appointed Assistant Municipal Clerk—Chemainus Sanitation to Be Improved

DUNCAN, June 21.—Mr. T. A. Wood, chairman of the Historical and Ancient Sites Committee, has written to the North Cowichan Council asking for co-operation of that body in the marking of certain historical sites in the municipality. The points which the committee proposes should be marked are as follows:

The old church site on the Freeman property, Somenos Lake Road; remains of house built by the first white settler (John Humphrey), on the J. H. Whittome property, Quamichan Lake Road; the old grist mill, built by Father Rondeau.

The committee asks that these sites be marked by concrete columns, three feet high, with brass plates suitably inscribed and attached. The council is asked to supply the concrete and labor. The request was viewed with favor, and the road superintendent instructed to take the matter up further with Mr. Wood.

Mr. G. H. Johnson has been appointed assistant municipal clerk, and Mr. H. M. Ancell has received the appointment as clerk under the Ditches and Watercourses Act.

The council has secured a dumping ground for garbage at Chemainus from Mr. Humbird, and the sanitation of the mill town is to receive more attention in future. A regular system of garbage collection is to be instituted.

Island Highway In Fine Shape Now for Motors

LADYSMITH, June 21.—A trip on the Island Highway in its present condition, which is excellent, is a treat for the motorist, the portion which has recently received a coating of specially prepared tarvia having greatly improved conditions. At present the entire journey from Victoria to Campbell River or Forbes' Landing, where the fishing is reported to be good, is a perfect pleasure trip. Alberni and Sproat Lake are also points of interest and most attractive to the many tourists who visit the Province as this season of the year. The display of flowers in the gardens of the many modern and well-kept homes are a feature of admiration and add greatly to the beauty of the northern section of the Island, also to the pleasure of all who avail themselves of the opportunity of taking a trip on the Island, where the combination of comfort and pleasure is provided for the visitors.

Good Progress Made In Home Economics

COURTENAY, June 21.—On Saturday afternoon, in the basement of St. George's United Church, there was a silver tea and an exhibition of needlework in connection with the home economics course of the school. The numerous articles displayed showed that the pupils of Miss Ethel Till have made good progress in the few months in which home economics have been taught. Next term, when, it is hoped the new High School will be completed, making more accommodation available, it is expected that a cookery course will also be included in the home economics. A number of girls of the various grades assisted in preparing and serving the tea. The proceeds, which formed a good sum, will go towards the purchase of books to form a home economics library.

ODD FELLOWS HOLD MEMORIAL SERVICE

Impressive Ceremony Held by Laurel Rebekah Lodge at Ladysmith Last Sunday

LADYSMITH, June 20.—A memorial service was held in the Odd Fellows' Hall here, on Sunday afternoon, when a large gathering of the members of Rebekah Lodge, No. 9, and the Unity Rebekah Lodge, No. 9, and thee Unity Encampment, No. 3, was in attendance. The ceremony was most impressive, showing the true teaching of the Order. Rev. W. R. Brown gave a most edifying address and Rev. H. Pearson opened the service with appropriate prayer. The memorial drill and the reading of the names of departed members and the formation of a memorial wreath was well carried out by the members of Laurel Rebekah Lodge, giving evidence of the high esteem in which the departed brothers were held by the members of the organization. The hymns sung were "The Sands of Time Are Sinking," and "Blest Be the Tie That Binds." The Benediction was pronounced by the Rev. H. Pearson, of St. John's Church.

NANAIMO PUPILS ARE GIVEN MEDALS

NANAIMO, June 21.—One thousand school children met on Monday afternoon in the school gymnasium and were presented with Confederation medals which were forwarded from the Ottawa mint for the purpose. Under the direction of Principal A. H. Webb, the children sang patriotic songs sent out by the department. Boys from Mr. O. Wardill's room presented a huge map of the Dominion, appropriately marked, and by comparisons told the story of progress since 1867. Mr. Fouracre's class produced a coat-of-arms of British Columbia of their own workmanship, accompanied by a story that stressed 1927. Talks were given by Mayor Busby, Dr. G. B. Brown, Mr. John Shaw, president of the School Board, and Mr. Webb.

Confirmation Service Held at Ladysmith

LADYSMITH, June 21.—A confirmation service was held at St. John's Church on Sunday evening, conducted by the Right Reverend the Lord Bishop of Columbia. DOCTOR'S SERVICES ARE SATISFACTORY

Remuneration, However, of Nanaimo Medical Officer Matter of Disagreement With Board of Health

NANAIMO, June 21.—Sitting as a Board of Health, the City Council last evening rejected the offer of Dr. Drysdale to continue as city medical health officer at the sum of $85 per month. Dr. Drysdale resigned from the position after his request for a raise of salary from $70 to $100 per month, with additional pay during epidemics, had been refused by the Council. In his letter to the Board, Dr. Drysdale stated that, in view of the different opinion as to salary, he would be willing to accept the sum of $85 per month as regular pay, with an increase during epidemics to be mutually agreed upon. Much discussion followed, each alderman taking part, when finally a motion was put and carried by four to two, that Dr. Drysdale be offered the sum of $70 per month, and an increase made during times of epidemics, the amount of the increase to be mutually agreed upon.

A letter was received from the Local Council of Women stating that at a meeting held by them yesterday afternoon, a vote of confidence had been passed in Dr. Drysdale and his services in the past as a medical officer. The letter was ordered filed, as it was pointed out that it was not a question of confidence in the Doctor, but a question of salary. There had been no objection at all regarding past services of Dr. Drysdale.

Wind Up Business Until After Summer

NANAIMO, June 21.—The Nanaimo Local Council of Women met yesterday afternoon and wound up business before adjourning for the Summer months. Rev. Hugh Nixon addressed the meeting on the Confederation Service, which is being held in the First United Church on the morning of July 3, to which the Local Council of Women will march in a body.

Preliminary arrangements were made for the Provincial Council Convention which takes place in Nanaimo in September. The secretary was instructed to write and invite two national officers to be present, besides Mrs. S. D. Scott, honorary president of the provincial council.

Courtenay to Use More Electricity

COURTENAY, June 21.—A revision of the electrical consumption rates for the purpose of inducing consumers to use more electricity for cooking was approved at Monday night's meeting. Alderman MacDonald claims that the reduction of twenty per cent. will make cooking by electricity cheaper than by wood or coal. This opinion was confirmed by City Clerk C. S. Wood and Alderman Lloyd. The reduction will, it is surmised, greatly increase consumption, which, according to the chairman of the electric committee, should reduce the mill rate by three per cent. That the meter card-reading system has been successful, was indicated by the co-operation of ninety per cent. of the consumers. No meter rents will be charged in future to those who read their own meters and return the cards.

Making Progress With Nanaimo Water Line

NANAIMO, June 21. — At the City Council meeting last night, City Engineer Sharp brought in a report dealing with the work now being carried on at the South Forks line of the city water works, and in effect stated that it was progressing favorably. The report dealt in detail with the work as it is progressing between "stations." However, he recommended that, until the work is completed, sprinkling regulations be put in force at once. He gave the readings of the different dams, showing a much lower water level than at this time last year, and for this reason he recommended sprinkling regulations.

STOCKS GO DOWN AT CLOSE OF DAY

SALE OF ISSUES PREVIOUSLY BOUGHT FOR SUPPORT LOWERS FINAL QUOTATIONS

Record-Breaking Total of Brokers' Loans Indicates Volume of Undigested Bonds

NEW YORK, June 21.—After a day of strength, selling of issues previously bought for supporting purposes turned the stock market irregular in the final hour of trading today.

Baldwin attracted attention by climbing three points to a new record high at 229, but it later lost all its gain. American Can touched a new 1927 top at 55¾, up 1¾. Motors were liquidated rather freely toward the close. Mack Trucks dropped three points to 105; Studebaker sagged below 49 for the first time this year, and General Motors, Pierce-Arrow common and preferred, Hudson and White sold down a point or two.

Most of the rails moved within rather narrow and irregular limits, although Bangor and Aroostook fell back three points and Atchison, Lackawanna, Kansas City Southern and Chesapeake & Ohio yielded a point or more.

The bond market was quiet. The record-breaking total of brokers' loans was of interest in bond circles, chiefly because it is felt that a substantial portion of it is represented in undigested new issues in the hands of dealers.

GRAIN MARKET IS VERY SLUGGISH

Dullness Reflected in Lower Prices Until Flurry at Close Carries Up to Gain

WINNIPEG, June 21.—The grain market today lapsed into dullness, with practically no buying interest, until a few minutes before the session closed. The sluggishness was reflected in lower prices for the greater part of the session, but the belated flurry inspired an advance which carried values from ⅛ to 1 cent above Monday's close.

Exporters were not in the market and spreading operations were limited.

Coarse grains were dull. Oats fell fractionally, while barley and rye held firm. Germany was reported to have bought rye liberally.

Chicago Grain

CHICAGO, June 21.—It was a day of great irregularity in the wheat market. The bearish influence of the advancement of the Kessinger Bill to third reading was offset by late harvest and further rains on the Southwest. Export business was slow because foreigners are claiming that arrivals are sufficient for their immediate needs and they are disposed to await crop advices from surplus territories. We still contend that while there may be some important improvement in the Southwest Winter wheat belt, as compared with June 1, the variation will not be of sufficient proportions to greatly affect the price. The price-making factors in our opinion are the territory east of the Mississippi River in the United States and the Spring wheat in Canada. Reports received from Southern Illinois, Kentucky and Tennessee are not especially gratifying. Consequently, we are disposed to view the present price of wheat as reasonable and to advocate buying on moderate setbacks. Corn was even more erratic than wheat, but ended strong after local traders had become too enthusiastic over prospects of legislation at Springfield. We are inclined to believe that selling is being overdone, although we are not disposed to take a very positive position until December corn is allowed to be quoted, because the true reflection of growing crop conditions can only be discovered in this future. Reports on oats were not quite so favorable, and the market ruled firm. With any kind of support from other grains, oats ought soon to be commanding a better price. Liverpool is due ⅜ to ¾d higher.

Winnipeg Grain Letter

(Supplied by R. P. Clark & Co., Ltd.)

WINNIPEG, June 21.—The wheat market was a dull, featureless affair today with trade volume the smallest in many days. While there was practically no demand, neither was there any selling, and prices held steady within a narrow range. Opening prices were slightly higher, based on the cables being somewhat firmer than expected, but the small advance was not held, prices most of the day hanging close to the previous close. There was no export business, the foreigner still holding off and apparently waiting for lower prices. Foreign statistics and general news suggest that Europe can no longer remain out of the market for her needs and some congestion is reported at two or three points. Growing wheat conditions in Canada could hardly be better, and if it was not for the lateness would be construed as very bearish. Very weedy conditions are reported from certain districts. Further general rains over Winter wheat territory will be construed as bullish, but was offset by those at Spring wheat points. The Kessinger Bill places the Chicago Board of Trade under control and regulation of the State Department of Agriculture and will undoubtedly curtail speculative trade in that market for a time at least. The market may sink a little during the next week, but we are still of the opinion that wheat can be profitably bought on all recessions based on world's food and crop situation.

Coarse Grains—There was a little buying of both July barley and rye, apparently lifting hedges against cash sales, but the volume was not large. Oats were dull, but firm.

Flax — Dull, steady market; no feature.

WOOD FOR FURNITURE SHIPPED TO ENGLAND

MONTREAL, June 21.—La Presse, a local newspaper, in its news pages publishes the following:

For the first time in fifteen years a cargo of wood destined to the manufacture of furniture left Montreal today for England.

The paper adds that English manufacturers generally purchased their wood in Russia, but owing to the strained relations between that country and Great Britain, commercial enterprises have been rendered difficult, and that the British will undoubtedly look to Canada for their raw material.

"This," the paper says, "will give an added impetus to the lumber industry of Canada."

Part of the cargo, 500,000 feet of pine, was cut out in the Ottawa Valley. The ship, the Atos, will dock at Restigouche, N.B., on its way to the ocean and load on another 1,400,000 feet of spruce. The ship also carried 400,000 feet of birch.

WATER POWERS

When the Carillon bells ring in the Jubilee on July 1st, Canada will look back with pride on many notable achievements.

And none are more notable than the development of her water powers.

Canadian world leadership in the per capita consumption of hydro power, has materially helped the progress and prosperity of our country, with a consequent profit to the investor in water power securities.

LORD ROTHERMERE CHAMPIONS HUNGARY

LONDON, June 21.—Lord Rothermere, chief proprietor of The Daily Mail, has written an article from Buda Pest which appears this morning in that paper, on international friction in Central and Southeastern Europe. He bases his observations on a recent tour and deals mainly with Hungary. He appeals to the western powers to help give Hungary a "place in the sun," and also urges that international bankers of London and New York use their powerful financial control in the interests of peace.

Lord Rothermere contends that the peace treaties which divided the Austro-Hungarian Empire, especially the treaty of Trianon, created unnatural economic frontiers in Central Europe, the injustice of which, he declares to be a standing danger to peace.

He urges the Allied Powers to reconsider the treaty.

I count it truth, with him who sings
To one clear harp in divers tones,
That men may rise on stepping stones
Of their dead selves to higher things.
—Tennyson.

FAMOUS PLAYERS LAUD VICTORIA

KIWANIANS ENTERTAIN SCOTTISH FOOTBALLERS AT CLUB LUNCHEON HERE

Mr. B. C. Nicholas Delivers Address of Welcome—Fine Musical Programme

The famous Scottish footballers who are touring Canada, and who play against an all-star Victoria team here tonight, were warmly greeted yesterday at the Kiwanis luncheon, when they were guests of the clubmen at the weekly Kiwanis meeting in the Chamber of Commerce auditorium, with Vice-President C. Elwood Watkins presiding.

Past President B. C. Nicholas delivered the address of welcome to the visitors. He expressed the pleasure it gave the Kiwanians to entertain the Scotsmen, and recalled that the club had been hosts to the all-star English football team on its visit to Victoria last year. He said that the local press "played up" Old Country soccer because the public here were greatly interested in the results of football contests in Great Britain. "We claim a very intimate association with Scotland," he said, referring to the part played by Scotsmen in the history of Canada and of British Columbia.

HOSPITALITY APPRECIATED

Thanks for the hearty welcome and hospitality extended to them was given by Mr. William McIntosh, treasurer of the Scottish Football Association.

"We have been feted ever since we left Bonnie Scotland," said Mr. McIntosh, "but this is the happiest time we have had in our travels across Canada. It seems more like home to be in Victoria, and we hope we can return here soon. We are interested in the work of Kiwanis, and hope it will continue to prosper."

Mr. McIntosh introduced in turn the various officials and players in the party, each of whom was applauded.

In appreciation of the hospitality of their hosts, the visiting footballers stood up and sang the number, "Come to Victoria," to the tune of "Moonlight and Roses" This was vociferously applauded.

VOCAL SOLOS RENDERED

Sergt.-Major W. H. Ruffell delighted his hearers with the ever popular song, "Mandalay." As an encore he rendered "The French Hussar."

Kiwanians Dave Macfarlane and Carl Stocker led the gathering in the singing of rousing community choruses.

Among the visitors at the luncheon were Rotarian James Harris, who is Chief of Police at Lethbridge, Alberta, and Mr. John Russell, a Vancouver Kiwanian, who is president of the Dominion Football Association.

Following the gathering, the Kiwanians took their guests to see the great Esquimalt Drydock, and later for an automobile drive about the city and environs, which was much enjoyed.

SEVERAL SISTERS OF CONFEDERATION ARE LIVING IN CANADA

KINGSTON, Ont., June 21.—More than two daughters of Fathers of Confederation are alive, according to Miss Mowat, niece of Sir Oliver Mowat.

Daughters of both Sir Oliver Mowat and Sir Alexander Campbell are still living in Toronto. Sir Oliver's daughters are Mrs. Thomas Langlen and Miss Mowat, and Sir Alexander Campbell's daughter is Mrs. Wallace Jones. There is also one daughter of Hon. G. Brown living in Edinburgh, Scotland, a Mrs. Barbour. Miss Mowat is of the opinion that Hon. George Brown's second daughter, Mrs. Sanderman, is living, and also several daughters of Sir A. T. Galt.

SPECIAL PRIVILEGES GRANTED LINDBERGH

WASHINGTON, June 21.—In recognition of his transatlantic flight, the Navy Department has authorized Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh to make use of naval aviation equipment at any time he chooses for either local or cross-country flying. The authorization was given in the form of a certificate and marks the first time a man outside the service has been granted permission regularly to operate naval aircraft.

Picturesque Pioneer Is Dead in Vancouver

Maris saw Madame Gonzalez and Lord Barstone shake hands and she wondered if she were dreaming.

Was this the friend madame had spoken of? What had brought him to this frontier town of Ventimiglia?

Then Lord Barstone turned to her and started back in astonishment.

"The Princess de Calvario!" he exclaimed.

Maris saw a twinkle of amusement in the eyes of Madame Gonzalez; she was evidently enjoying the situation.

"Yes," she remarked to Lord Barstone, "this is the young lady I told you about."

Maris was very glad to see him; after all the excitement and danger she had gone through, she felt safe in being near him. She knew the wonderful power that he wielded.

But the thought struck her at once, and amazed her. She knew in a flash that she could not break her word to Madame Gonzalez; she knew that she could not tell Lord Barstone the whole truth without sacrificing madame's Bolshevist relatives. But what was she to do?

Meanwhile, madame walked with the Minister to the end of the tawdry salon and Maris heard a few words of a whispered conversation.

Then they returned to her.

"Princess," the peer said, "I have just been telling Madame Gonzalez that my mother is on the yacht and she will be delighted if you will join our party on board."

Maris looked at madame and the latter smiled.

"Lord Barstone is going for a cruise to Alexandria," she said. "You will have a good time."

Maris was bewildered; she saw the opportunity of escaping entirely from the attentions of the French police; she now believed that Madame Gonzalez had contrived the whole plan.

But Lord Barstone? What part did he play in the matter? Had he been told anything? Maris believed that he had not. Madame was responsible for it all.

In a few words Maris told Lord Barstone how much she appreciated his kind offer.

"Then I suppose you will come aboard at once," he suggested.

Maris thought of her small amount of luggage and wondered what the people on the yacht would think of it.

But madame came once more to her rescue.

"I think it will be better, dear," she said, "to have your heavy baggage sent on to Genoa where the yacht can pick it up."

Maris had nothing to offer against this, but she knew that madame would arrange it all somehow.

"Then let us go down to the launch," suggested Barstone. "It is waiting for us."

They strolled out into the street and the night, but on the doorstep madame put her arm through Maris' and held her back.

"Remember your promise," she whispered. "Not a word to Lord Barstone."

"I shall keep my promise," Maris answered; "but what is to become of me when I leave the yacht?"

"There is no difficulty in answering that question," madame answered rather stiffly; "you must go back to the place from which you came."

"And to the old life?" Maris asked plaintively.

"And to the old life," madame repeated.

"But forgive me if I ask one question, Madame Gonzales," Maris said after a pause. "What am I to do for clothes?"

This made the Parisian laugh.

"I will get them from the hotel," she said, "and send them on to you to Genoa. You will have all your pretty things in a few days. Now," proceeded madame, "I think you have everything you need. You have your money safe?"

"Yes," answered Maris, "the notes are here quite safe in my bag."

"Then let us lose no time in joining Lord Barstone," her companion rejoined, "or he may get suspicious."

The peer was waiting for them a few yards off, and they all three turned down a small street to the landing-stage. The moonbeams were still playing on the rippling water, and away out in the bay was a big yacht, one blaze of light.

Maris thought she had never beheld a more lovely sight; that yacht meant freedom and safety to her.

She turned, and Madame Gonzales bent down and kissed her. "Good-bye, darling," she said, "bon voyage."

Barstone helped her into the launch, and, having taken leave of madame, stepped in himself.

Maris had entered on a new stage of her adventures.
